START PLANS FOR TWO MORE SCHOOL BUILDINGS

'Groaners' head for Arlington

Verne Gagne, heralded as the man "who wrestles for keeps" and the next champion of the wrestling game, will head the list of many of TV's best grapplers scheduled by the Arlington Heights Lions club for their second wrestling charity show at the new gymnasium March 29.

READ THE SPORTS SECTION of this paper for full details.

The Lions have set aside all but 10 per cent of the proceeds for their charity fund which includes the youth center, the boy scouts, March of Dimes, Heart fund, and other charitable enterprises. Ten per cent has been earmarked for the student activity fund of the high school. Also, the concession for refreshments will be turned over to the "A" club and Ushers club of the school.

Fred Kohler, wrestling promoter, spoke to the Lions at their regular dinner meeting Tuesday night, talking about professional wrestling.

Concert season ends with versatile group of male singers, pianist

Men of Song, who will be the guest artists at the last Arlington Heights Community Concert of the season. They will sing Sunday at the high school gym. The program begins at 8:15 p. m.

The Men of Song, who will appear in Arlington Heights Sunday as guests of the Arlington Heights Community Concert association, are an accomplished versatile group of four virile male voices and their pianist-arranger.

The concert will be held in the old high school gym. Doors will open at 7:30 p. m., and the program begins at 8:15 p. m.

Veterans of four years on the concert stage, numerous appearances in radio and television, and having made many recordings, each of the artists has a full musical background and education. The key to their ability to delight audiences of all types, lies in their individual musical training.

JOHN Campbell, tenor, has appeared with leading symphony orchestras including the Kansas City Philharmonic and has sung with thte J. J. Shubert Repertoire company. His New York recital debut was well received by the leading critics. He is a graduate of Juilliard and Columbia.

Alfred Kunz, tenor, has appeared at the Paper Mill Playhouse and on radio's leading shows, including "The Hit Parade" and "The Voice of Firestone." His Broadway appearances include "Winged Victory" and "Rosalinda." He was featured in the premieres of the Virgil Thomson-Gertrude Stein opera, "The Mother of Us All" and Otto Luening's opera, "Evangeline."

Roger White, baritone, is widely known both in radio and concert. He was featured soloist with Lyn Murray singers and has been heard on the "Texaco Star Theatre, "Harvest of Stars" and "Carnegie Hall." He holds degrees from Columbia university and was a fellowship student at the Juilliard graduate school.

EDMOND Karlsrud, bass, attended Minnesota university and Juilliard as a scholarship student and appeared as soloist with their respective orchestras and choruses. Since he organized The Men of Song he has found time for solo appearances in radio, television, concert, and also with the Erie Philharmonic and "Carnegie Pops" orchestras.

Charles Touchette, pianist-arranger, has toured the world as an accompanist with many great artists. As staff vocal arranger for CBS he became associated with quartets, many leading choral groups, and all the major recording companies. Mr. Touchette is a graduate of the New England Conservatory of Music and is a member of The American Society of Musical Arrangers.

The annual membership campaign for the 1952-53 season will be conducted the week of May 12. Only during that one week are memberships available. The fee is $6, which entitles each member to attend four outstanding concerts.

Illinois Jaycee president to be guest of local group

LARRY BUCKMASTER

Larry Buckmaster, president of the Illinois Junior Chamber of Commerce, will be the guest of the Wheeling township Jaycees at a general membership meeting at the field house in Arlington Heights Thursday, March 6, at 7:30 p. m.

Buckmaster, employed by the Illinois Bell Telephone company in Chicago, has been an active Jaycee for six years. During this time he has been vice-president of the Chicago Jaycees, vice-president of the Illinois J.C.C., and a director of the United States Junior Chamber of Commerce. This career was climaxed last May when he was elected state president. He is also serving at the present time as the United States JCC chairman of state presidents.

The Illinois Junior Chamber of Commerce is primarily a service organization for the 88 local chapters and 6,000 members throughout the state. The president, eleven vice-presidents, and 32 state chairmen work in conjunction with the United States JCC to advise, suggest, and in many other ways assist the local chapter with activities such as civic projects, sports projects, organization, and others.

One of the features of the state organization is the quarterly directors and all-state meetings held in various cities throughout the state. At these meetings there is an opportunity for Jaycees from Wheeling township to exchange ideas and experiences with many other Jaycees. Other events sponsored by the Illinois Jaycees include the Miss Illinois contest, Illinois junior baseball tournament, and the Illinois junior golf tournament.

Two Palatine cars, one Arlington in 3-car accident

A three-car collision on Northwest highway near Fairview in Mt. Prospect Tuesday morning was blamed on the blizzard.

Blinded by the blowing snow, drivers were unable to see the road or approaching traffic. George F. Hoffmann, Palatine, going west, collided head-on with Nick Opels, Arlington Hts., going east. A moment later, W. A. Jordahl, Palatine, rammed into them. All were traveling slowly, so no one was hurt. Property damage is estimated at $600.

Property owners protest trailer park to no avail

Property owners protesting the erection of a trailer park at the intersection of State rd. and Rte. 58 (Golf rd.), located a mile from the village limits of Arlington Heights, found they "didn't have a leg to stand on" at their third protest meeting held February 28.

Under the present Cook county zoning ordinance there is no restraint on trailer parks where the property is zoned for business. This particular piece was rezoned for business in 1940.

To prevent a similar occurrence to other unsuspecting property owners this group suggests that a possible solution might be an amendment to the zoning laws giving the school districts, cities, towns, and property owners the right of a public hearing to protest trailer parks within their districts. Another solution would be to take them out of B1 (business) and put them in B2 (taverns, etc.) which would give the parties concerned the right to protest the installation.

AS A RESULT of the protest meetings held by the above group they found the following faults associated with trailer parks:

1. Generally undesirable.
2. No taxes collected on trailers.
3. Schools—crowding already overburdened facilities, adding to taxes of property owners, because schools would have to be enlarged and new teachers hired.
4. Sanitation—troubles generally arise from sewage disposal of a large number of families in a small area. A private engineering firm gave the group its opinion that this will become a nuisance.
5. Police troubles—police have been called many times to trailer parks in the vicinity due to fights, property damage and crop damage.
6. Property values lowered.
7. Traffic hazard—many accidents have occurred on the corner of State and Golf rds. Fast traffic would be a hazard to children living in the trailer park as well as their being an additional hazard to automobile traffic.

FIRST ROBINS

Mrs. L. Barney Erickson, 435 S. Evergreen, Arlington Heights, was the first resident to report the appearance of robins in the village.

She said that two fat little red breasted fellows were among the hundreds of birds feeding in her yard Sunday morning. Mrs. Erickson throws out bread for the birds every day. She has no problem attracting the birds, which literally sit on her porch railing each morning.

Red Cross campaign opens in Arlington; $4,000 goal for 1952

Mrs. R. K. Dillenback, 529 S. Highland ave., has accepted the fund chairmanship for the 1952 Red Cross fund campaign in Arlington Heights, it was learned today in an announcement from Telfer MacArthur, county communities division chairman for the big March drive.

Mrs. Dillenback will head a team of volunteers who will carry the Red Cross solicitation appeal into the homes, local businesses, civic organizations and churches of Arlington Heights.

SERVING as local fund chairman for the first time, Mrs. Dillenback already is working out plans for a strong organized drive in order to reach the village's goal of $4,000.

Section chairmen assisting Mrs. Dillenback are: Mesdames James Black, Stephen Murphy, Charles Peters, Frank P. Sesterhenn, Barney Erikson, Wilbur Innman, Ralph Hoffie, G. W. Sullivan, Foster Travis, Raymond A. Peterson, Walter Stumpf, Jerome Hoopes, Gerald W. Sanders, W. William Gappert.

At the same time he announced Mrs. Dillenback's appointment, MacArthur expressed the opinion that the 1952 fund drive is one of the most important of the campaigns since World War II — including last year's, when aid to the armed forces in Korea placed an added burden on the Red Cross without warning.

"This year, the Red Cross still faces the constantly growing problem of furnishing whole blood and plasma in increased amounts to the military in Korea, but it is just one of the demands which the organization must meet," MacArthur stated.

"AN IMPORTANT part of the vast home defense program it has outlined calls for at least one person in every family trained in first aid or home nursing," he continued.

"Perhaps most significant, however, is the need to replenish the reserve working fund practically depleted last spring when the Red Cross was called on to meet a national crisis — the Kansas-Missouri floods, worst in the country's history. This fund, now dangerously low after an expenditure of $350,000 from the Chicago Chapter alone, must be rebuilt immediately in order to permit the Red Cross to meet disaster, should it strike again," Mr. MacArthur concluded.

The 1952 overall campaign goal for the Chicago Chapter is $3,750,000, a 12 per cent increase over 1951. Serving Cook and DuPage counties and the southern half of Lake County, the Chicago Chapter is the world's largest, representing and aiding five million persons.

Heights man wounded in Korea

Pvt. Robert F. Wegrzyn, 22, son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Weglyn, Wilke rd., Arlington Heights, was reported wounded in action in Korea, February 23. He is suffering from shrapnel wounds in the left arm and in the neck behind his right ear.

A LETTER from the Red Cross confirming the telegram sent by the army, stated that Bob would undergo surgery within a few days to remove the pieces of shrapnel. His condition was as well as could be expected at the time the message was sent. Bob is being treated at the 121st Field Evacuation hospital, near Seoul.

Bob was drafted into the army August 10, 1951, and received his basic training at Camp Stone, Penn. He completed his basic December 8, at which time he was given a seven day furlough at home. He returned to camp Christmas day, and was immediately shipped to Japan. He landed in Seoul January 31, and was at the front lines within 35 hours.

AT THE TIME Bob was wounded he was in the "punch bowl," which was considered the hottest spot on the Korean war front.

The Wegrzyns have two other sons in service, Pvt. Richard, 20, who is completing his basic training at Ft. Leonard Wood, Mo., and Pvt. Peter Jr., 23, who is finishing his fourth year in the Arlington Heights National Guard. Richard was drafted January 4 of this year.

Busse endorses William G. Stratton for governor

William Busse, dean of the Republican party in Cook county, has given his wholehearted endorsement to William G. Stratton, it was announced this week by Charles J. Fleck, Cook county chairman for the William G. Stratton for governor campaign.

Busse, county commissioner for the past 50 years, has also served on the Republican county committee for the last half-century. Among the public offices he has held are that of sheriff and president of the County Board.

His statement endorsing Stratton read:

"I have known the Stratton family for generations, and have known the tradition of service they have rendered to the people of Illinois. William Stratton has a great record as a Congressman and as state treasurer, and I wholeheartedly endorse him for governor because it is my feeling that he will be a strong administrator."

In releasing the statement, Charles Fleck pointed out that Busse has had an unblemished record for good government during his entire life. He has been a fighter for economy and a high standard of morals in public life.

The Busse endorsement will not only have weight in Elk Grove township, but also throughout Northwest Cook county, comprising six townships.

Building commissioner to get new assistants at Arlington

The first reading of two new ordinances to be adopted by the village was part of the business transacted by the Arlington Heights village board Monday night.

One ordinance provides for the appointment of two men to serve on the building committee, and defines their duties. These men are to serve for one year or until a successor is appointed. Their main duty is to assist the building commissioner in studying all plans being submitted for a building permit. They are to be paid $2 each for each set of plans approved by them, the cost of which shall be paid by the party applying for the building permit.

THE OTHER ordinance calls for the formation of an architectural design committee of two members, who shall be appointed under the same provisions as stated above. They too, will receive $2 each, for each set of plans approved by them, the cost of which shall also be paid by the applicant for a building permit. The second reading of these ordinances will be held at the next regular meeting of the board March 17.

Jacob Mauer asked the board's approval of lot sizes planned for his new subdivision, located between N. Dunton and Highland aves., north of Willow st. He has increased the lot sizes to 60 and 64 feet width instead of the 49 feet, which was the original plan. The board gave its consent to the new lot sizes providing it meets with the approval of the plan commission. A new ordinance recently passed by the village requires lots in all new subdivisions to have a frontage of at least 66 feet.

Approval to engage the village engineer to prepare plans and specifications for improvements in Windsor Heights, was given to Arthur C. Jacobs, who plans to develop the subdivision. This approval also was given pending a like approval by the plan commission. Windsor Heights is located on E. Euclid, across from Our Lady of Arlington novitiate. It is bounded on the north by Euclid, west by Derbyshire lane, east by Windsor drive, south by Miner st.

A SLIGHT change made in the plat of the proposed Arlington Greens subdivision, to be developed by Joseph Horowitz of Red Seal homes, which had previously been OK'd by the board, was accepted as revised. The subdivision located north of Oakton, bounded by Hickory on the west and Dryden on the east, is made up of more than 140 lots.

Each of the above developers was asked by the board to furnish the street signs, which should be in harmony with the signs in the rest of the village, when streets in their subdivisions are completed.

Building Commissioner Fred Hammer called the board's attention to the fact that several real estate developers and private home builders have not been adhering to the village ordinance which requires a public sidewalk to be laid in front of all new homes. The board will investigate the matter.

The fire department submitted a request to have the dates of their annual carnival changed from August 20-24 to June 18-22. The request was granted.

March storm ties up traffic and schools

Northwest suburbanites were digging out of the second worst storm of the season this week, as more than four inches of snow with accompanied high winds, stifled travel and communication early Tuesday morning.

Some schools were closed, others operated with minimum staffs.

Street crews had a difficult time keeping the snow from drifting back on cleared roads. At Mt. Prospect, drifts as high as four feet were still reported Tuesday afternoon.

Two early morning trains were delayed when snow clogged automatic switches at Des Plaines. A heavy commuter load was reported as hundreds left their autos in garages and rode the trains downtown.

Many residents reported that telephone service was out. However, according to telephone officials no breakdown occurred, but the extra load necessiated waits up to an hour before call could be placed. The telephone company sent trucks out to bring extra operators from their homes.

Both Arlington Heights and Palatine high schools dismissed classes at noon. At Palatine, 150 of the total 435 students attended. Arlington Heights reported only 248 students out of their 1,065 made it to school.

School buses were unable to make their rounds and the faculty at the Heights high school used their own automobiles to take some students home.

Palatine grade school did not hold classes but the elementary schools at Mt. Prospect and Arlington Heights managed to hold classes but with less than one-fifth of their total enrollment.

Tuesday storm causes phone traffic jam

If you were one of the hundreds of telephone subscribers who had to wait for service Tuesday morning, here is the explanation.

While the figures given below apply to the Arlington Heights exchange, the percentage of "overload" was relatively the same in Palatine and Barrington exchanges.

Average number local calls	24,500
Tuesday local calls	37,320
Calls to adjacent towns
Daily average	4,250
Tuesday calls	6,022

By using some of the telephone operators in training, all 22 panel boards were placed in use by 8:30. The rush load existed from 6:30 to 11:30 a. m. and by late afternoon had returned to normal.

The operating department of Illinois Bell did everything possible to handle the calls. However, with a similar condition in neighboring towns, calls to those places also ran into bottle necks.

The public may be interested in the number of operators required to handle a normal day's business.

8:00 a. m. to 12 noon	20
12 noon until 4 p. m.	18
4:00 to 8:00	16
8:00 to 9:00	12
9:00 to 10:00	10

Expect to purchase Catholic and park board land to enlarge south side school area

Arlington Heights Elementary school board does not intend to sit still and wring its hands because the school population in the district will "push out the walls" of present school buildings within two or three years.

Plans are being started now which include:

1. Purchase of all the area between its present South Side school property and Park st.
2. Erection thereon of a new school for use of the south side lower grade pupils.
3. Ultimate use of the present South side school for junior high school purposes.
4. Erection of a lower grade school building on property in Arlington Ridge, owned by the school district.

The above is something more than a so-called long range program. If the new school buildings are going to be ready for coming school pupils, the propositions involved must be presented to voters of the district this coming summer in order that one or both of the new schools will be ready for occupancy by September 1953.

The first step is of course the purchase of the land. A contract has been made with the office of the Catholic bishop for the property owned by him at a price of $29,000. A similar contract has been made with the Arlington Heights Park district for four lots owned by it. Completion of the purchase is contingent upon the success of a referendum held prior to July 1.

Detailed plans of the board of education were included in a letter mailed to PTA members last week, a resume of which follows.

DURING THE PAST several years residents of Arlington Heights have seen the public school systems grow by leaps and bounds, with two additions to the high school, one addition to the North elementary school, two additions to the South elementary and a new kindergarten through fifth grade school, now under construction on Dryden place.

Despite these additions the school systems, particularly the grade schools, have been unable to keep pace with the growth of the village. The elementary schools' board of education no sooner had one addition completed when they had to start making plans for another. The new Dryden place school, which the board hopes is finished in time for the beginning of school next fall, was hardly started when the board was faced with another problem.

The Junior high school will soon be overcrowded. The present building, which is attached to the South school, can accommodate only four sections in each grade and will become overcrowded as soon as the six or eight sections in each of the lower grades begin to reach it, even if there were no further growth in the community.

THE ADVISABILITY of adding to the present building has been considered by the board, which decided, however, it would be better to convert the South school, now housing children from kindergarten through fifth grade, to Junior high use. This conversion would take place in two steps, with approximately half of the South school being turned over to the Junior high in each step.

This plan would proivde for the erection of a new South school to accommodate the classes being moved out to make room for Junior high students. Negotiations are now under way to secure the balance of the tract bounded by South st., Highland ave., Park st. and Mitchell ave. The new building would be located on the Park st. end of this tract and would include seven rooms at first, to be added to as more space in the other building is taken over by the Junior high.

EXPECTED enrollments of kindergarten through fifth grade pupils in the North school indicate an immediate need for additional facilities on the north side. It will probably be necessary to plan double sessions for first grade pupils in the North school next year. Present plans provide for the erection of a six room school on the site owned by the district in Arlington Ridge.

The board hopes to be able to present the matter of building this school and the new South school to voters in early summer, with the hope of having these facilities ready for the 1953-54 school year, at which time they will be sorely needed. Additional facts and figures regarding this building program will be provided all interested members of the community before such a referendum is held.

700 additional voters get 'under the wire' for April primaries

Village and township clerks of four northwest Cook county townships report that they added more than 700 persons to the voters registration lists of their respective areas March 1 and 3.

Forrest Davis, Arlington Hts. village clerk, says that at times four clerks were kept busy accepting registrations. Each registrant must sign his name on three cards, which in turn must be completely filled out by the clerk. Thus the 250 registrants handled in his office meant that a total of 750 cards had to be completed.

The figures for the two-day final registration for the April primaries are:

Village of Arlington	250
Village of Wheeling	15
Township of Wheeling	102
Village of Palatine	120
Township of Palatine	100
Village of Mt. Prospect	98
Township of Elk Grove	43
Township of Schaumburg	17
Total	745

During the January registration period more than 1,900 persons were registered, making a grand total of more than 2,600 persons now able to vote in this district.

Community Council to sponsor campaign to "Get-Out-the-Vote"

Arlington Heights Community Council has dropped plans for a "town meeting" at which primary candidates of both parties would have the opportunity to meet Arlington voters.

The cancelling of plans is due to other similar and previously planned meetings being held by individual political party groups.

The board recommends a "Get-Out-the-Vote" campaign and asks each member of the council to do his part in making this project a success.

Voters meet, visit with candidates on Republican primary ballot

More than 150 men and women spent an enjoyable and enlightening afternoon Sunday at the candidates' tea sponsored by the Wheeling Township Regular Republican Woman's club, at the Arlington Heights field house.

Candidates on the Republican primary ballot were invited guests, 15 of whom were able to accept the invitation. Those present gave brief talks on the qualifications they had to fill the office for which they were running. It afforded the voter an opportunity to associate the name of a candidate with an actual person, and to learn first hand his qualifications and the policies he would follow.

MRS. GEORGE Schneberger served as program chairman, taking over the introduction of candidates after a brief welcome given by Mrs. Q. K. Ford, club president.

Bernice T. Van Der Vries, seventh district representative of the Illinois general assembly and up for re-election, acted as guest hostess and gave the first informal talk of the afternoon.

Other candidates present were: Arthur Sprague, another seventh district representative of the Illinois general assembly up for re-election; J. Roy Browning and Edward Saltiel, candidates for attorney general; Grenville Beardsley, running for state's attorney; Thomas Godfrey and Philip H. Mitchell, candidates for recorder; Harold R. Collier, running for office of secretary of state.

RICHARD Mangold, candidate for coroner; Francis X. Connell, running for clerk of circuit court; James Kemper and Alvin Kvistad, candidates for delegates to the Republican convention; Harold H. Jones, running for office of trustee of the sanitary district in Leyden township. The latter will not appear on the Cook county primary ballot, but was invited to speak since voters of Leyden township were invited to attend the tea.

William E. Wayland, who is a candidate for state treasurer, was unable to attend due to illness, but was represented by his son, who gave his father's qualifications for that office.

WILLIAM Stratton, candidate for governor of Illinois, was also unable to attend but was represented by Sherman Canty, who told what qualifications Stratton had to fill that office.

George Hedges, candidate for secretary of state, telephoned during the tea saying he had been delayed and therefore would not be able to make an appearance.

Following the talks punch and cookies were served to the guests, who also had an opportunity at this time to personally talk with the candidates. Refreshments were in charge of Mrs. Charles Hamburg Jr., social chairman, and her committee.

Woman's club plans 3 group meetings

The international relations study group of the Arlington Heights Woman's club will meet at the home of Mrs. C. G. Cruickshank, 818 S. Dunton ave., March 10, at 1:30 p. m.

The chairman of the group, Mrs. L. J. Knoeppel, will introduce as the guest speaker, Thomas H. Wright, executive director of the Commission on Human Relations for the past seven years, whose topic will be "Human Relations in Chicago — A Mirror for Foreign Policy."

Thomas H. Wright received his bachelor's degree at Transylvania college, Lexington, Ky., and his master's degree at Teachers' college, Columbia university, and abroad at the London school of economics. He has served as associate professor of philosophy and ethics at Occidental college, Los Angeles, and visiting fellow in philosophy at the University of California, Berkeley.

At the beginning of World War II, Mr. Wright joined the office of production management (OPM) as field assistant in charge of minority group employment, responsible for 19 states in the midwest. He was connected with the war manpower commission from its inception as a federal war agency, as assistant to the regional director of region VI, and subsequently was acting area director for Chicago and area director for area 1 in Illinois.

From this background Mr. Wright acquired a wealth of experience and should give his audience much food for thought and an insight into human relations at all levels.

All club members are welcome and are requested to call Mrs. Cruickshank at 3452-M if planning to attend. Mrs. W. E. Trude and Mrs. K. M. Hull will be co-hostesses for the afternoon.

Music study group

The music study group will hold its final meeting of the season March 12 at 1:15 p. m. at the home of Mrs. Earl J. Snetsinger, 414 W. Hawthorne st.

Mrs. Snetsinger and Mrs. Leon Zahn will give a duo-piano recital and will present a varied program. Included in the program will be "Scherzino," by Simmons; "Rondo Brilliante," by Mahr; the "Brazileira," from the Saramouche Suite, by Milhaud; Rensky's "Valse," and the suite, "In Elfland," a musical fairy tale by Seuel-Holst.

Mrs. Snetsinger is well known locally as the music teacher of the Prospect Heights and Elk Grove schools and has taught many students privately at her home in Arlington Heights. She also conducts a small band comprised of grade school pupils in Prospect Heights. She is a graduate of Northwestern university, where she majored in music and has also done some post-graduate work at Drake university in Des Moines.

Mrs. Zahn, who lives in Mt. Prospect, is the wife of Rev. Leon Zahn. She recently moved here from Baltimore, and studied music there and in Hagerstown, Md. She directs the Mt. Prospect Woman's club chorus and has appeared in two-piano recitals with Mrs. Snetsinger on a number of occasions.

This afternoon of fine music by two neighbors will be a fitting climax to the year's activities of the music study group and all club members are invited to attend.

Reservations may be telephoned to the chairman of the group, Mrs. Wilbur G. Inman, at 2156-J. Co-hostesses for this meeting will be Mrs. H. Lee Watson and Mrs. John Kehe.

Conservation and Garden Group

The conservation and garden study group will meet March 13, at 9:30 a. m. at the home of Mrs. E. F. Laurin, 700 S. Beverley lane.

The featured speaker at this meeting will be Noel Wisong, who is chief of forestry for the County of Cook. He will speak about the common ailments of trees and their remedies and will illustrate his talk with slides.

Everyone is interested in conserving trees for their beauty and shade, and many trees which might otherwise be lost can be saved if blights are caught in the early stages. Mr. Wisong will tell his audience how to recognize these faults as they appear and what to do to stop them.

Members who plan to attend this meeting are requested to telephone Mrs. Laurin at 388 because the garden group meetings are usually well attended and advance reservations are helpful to the hostess.

Mrs. Joseph Garofalo, Mrs. R. P. Mates and Mrs. S. Myers will serve as co-hostesses.

Wheeling Home Bureau

Wheeling Home Bureau unit met February 28 at 12:30 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Carl Mees, 400 E. Euclid ave., Arlington Heights, for a favorite recipe luncheon.

The afternoon lesson of "The Selection of Accessories" was given by Mrs. Martin Meyer and Mrs. Clifford Crane.

Officers of the unit for the year are Mrs. Max Hershey, chairman; Mrs. Frank Fabian, vice-chairman, and Mrs. Arthur Ashcraft, secretary-treasurer.

Elk Grove Home Bureau

The Elk Grove unit of Cook County Home Bureau met February 27 at the home of Mrs. J. Dritlein. Co-hostesses were Mrs. Hattendorf, Mrs. Mahler and Mrs. Hammond.

The lesson on the selection of accessories was given by Mrs. Marvin Busse and Mrs. Hilmer Mahler.

Walther League to sponsor movie on life of Jesus Christ

The famous Hollywood pilgrimage play, "The Story of the Life of Jesus Christ," produced in color by Concordia Publishing House, will be shown March 14, at Cutting Hall, Palatine, 8 p.m.

The film is being sponsored by the Palatine Immanuel Walther League. Admission is sixty cents for adults and twenty-five cents for children.

Here is a picture everyone will be talking about long after they have seen it. For emotional power, for dramatic sweep, for tender pathos, for crushing tragedy and majestic triumph, this portrayal of the life of the Savior is unexcelled.

Most impressive of all is the masterful portrayal of the life of the blessed Lord Himself as He goes up and down the Palestinian countryside, proclaiming His gospel and performing His wondrous miracles.

Refreshments will be sold between the main film and the shorts that will also be shown. (B4

Alfred Martin attends Midwest Beauty Trade show

Alfred Martin of the Martin Hair Dressing Salon, Arlington Heights, was among the 10,000 people attending the Midwest Beauty Trade Show at the Sherman hotel, Chicago, March 2-4.

Martin, who is a member of the show's board of directors, was accompanied by his wife, and Raymond Raines, a hair stylist in his shop. Miss Frances Bryant and Miss Irene Bell, who are also employed at the Martin Hair Dressing Salon, were present during part of the show.

THE PURPOSE of the show was to introduce the latest trends in hair fashions to the beauty profession. Hair stylists from all over the country were in attendance.

The show opened Sunday morning with a preview of the latest hair styles, which will set the trend for 1952. Monday and Tuesday mornings clinics were held to instruct hair stylists in the latest arts of hair shaping, styling and pin curling. Live models were used in these courses and Mr. Martin served as one of the instructors.

A hair styling contest was held Monday afternoon, with nearly 75 hair stylists competing. Mr. Martin was asked to assist with the arrangements for this contest.

MONDAY NIGHT Mr. and Mrs. Martin were among the special guests invited to the president's party in the House-on-the-Roof of the Sherman. The party was held in honor of visiting guest artists on the Midwest show program and for a limited number of friends in attendance at the show.

The grand finale, which took place Tuesday afternoon, was entitled "Easter Parade." At this time models wearing the latest in hair styles, clothes, hats, shoes, and jewelry, paraded before the guests, showing how perfect harmony in clothes and hair can make any woman beautiful.

Lore of the Honeybee

Fossil remains indicate that honeybees appeared on earth long before man. Men were not slow to find that honey was a delightful food and many early writings mention both bees and honey.

Bees and honey were so highly regarded that they have been mentioned in the sacred books of many lands. The Bible makes several references to honey, such as "Land flowing with milk and honey." Most good dairy regions are good honey locations and there is a close relationship between bees for pollinating clovers for pasture and hay.

The bee had an important place in Rig-Veda, written in Sanskrit about 2500 B. C. The Incas of Peru used honey for sacrifices to the sun. The ancient Greeks had many myths about bees and honey. The Egyptians probably originated migratory beekeeping, moving bees up and down the Nile river in boats to follow the blooming season. Honey was found in King Tut's tomb with other choice articles.

Napoleon was fascinated by the industry of bees and selected them for his coat of arms. The Mormons held the bees in high regard and Utah has a beehive surrounded by flowers and the word "Industry" for its state seal.

Mead, a fermented mixture of honey and water, was used in many rites and ceremonies in ancient Europe. "Honeymoon" is supposed to come from the old custom of drinking mead for thirty days after a wedding.

The tales and legends about bees and honey that have accumulated for as long as history has been recorded, are numberless but one fact stands out — that honey has always been highly regarded as a delicious and healthful food.

CIRCLING THE TOWN

BY PHYLLIS KNIGHT

Sunday evening's concert by the Men of Song will conclude this year's four programs of the Arlington Heights Community Concert association, after having offered four widely varied evenings of music. Gladys Swarthout, the pianists Bartlett and Robinson, and violinist Ossy Renardy were the first three to appear.

The Men of Song, a prominent quartet of male voices, present a program ranging from operatic numbers to Negro spirituals. This concert should be a fitting climax to the 1951-52 season.

Soon membership renewals in the association will be offered and there will be a number of new memberships available for next year because of the large capacity of the new high school gymnasium. This will enable all the people interested in four fine programs of music at a reasonable price—five dollars plus one dollar federal tax—to hear them without the bother or expense of a trip into Chicago, officials of the group say. The Community Concert association brings the world's finest artists to "your" home town.

Mid-week church

During Lent, mid-week services are being held in most of the local churches, giving members and others who attend a chance to visit there in addition to Sundays.

At St. John Evangelical and Reformed church, Rev. William F. Kamphenkel is speaking on the "Last Seven Words of Christ on the Cross" on each successive Wednesday. At the Presbyterian church a prayer service is offered.

Special mid-week services are also scheduled at the Methodist church, Faith Lutheran and St. Peter Lutheran, as well as the regular meetings held throughout the year at First Church of Christ, Scientist.

Congratulations to . . .

Norbert Leckband, who after just two years of wrestling competition, was runner-up in the state high school wrestling championships in his weight class. His aggressive spirit and ability to learn the techniques brought him to the top in record time.

Erica Jung, who won three awards in one week—a scholarship to Knox college, the Woman's club essay contest and honorable mention in the science talent search.

Jay Vawter, second high scorer in West Suburban basketball and a member of the first all-conference team.

Charles Knapp, high point man in the debate contest for high school students sponsored by the University of Illinois at Navy Pier, and Joan Groth, who received this year's DAR good citizenship award given annually to an outstanding girl in the senior class.

These five young people are upholding traditions of making especially good records in varied fields, traditions long a part of Arlington high custom.

Semanticist speaking

Members of the Arlington Heights Woman's club heard an authority on the science of semantics and an outstanding speaker—combined in one person—yesterday afternoon when Dr. Irving J. Lee, of the Northwestern university's school of speech spoke to them on human preparedness.

Dr. Lee spoke to the Woman's club once before on a Men's night program three years ago and was so well received that yesterday's talk was in the nature of the return of an old friend.

LUSCIOUS MARA LINDSAY, Latin Quarter night club lovely, is one of the more obvious reasons for Miami Beach's popularity. Here the camera caught Mara sunning herself under a cool sun screen of Tartan Lotion. These days, glamour gals have a healthy outdoor look which enhances their appearance, in place of a cooked look—thanks to science. (ANS)

Debate squads win six, lose two, in tournament at Arlington high

Members of the Arlington Heights township high school's debating squads won 6 and lost 2 debates in an invitational tournament with Marmion Military academy at the local high school February 28.

The subject for this year's high school debate squads is resolved: that all American citizens should be subject to conscription for essential service in time of war.

Of the six wins, three were by affirmative teams composed of Dan Walton and Jay Bressner, Dan Walton and Joyce Nilsson, and Rod Peltier and Kermit Ford. Of the three negative wins, Chuck Knapp and Carol Hedemark won twice, and the team of Kay Bressner and Tom Cleaver scored another victory.

Out of a possible 84 points awarded by the judges on delivery, style and content, Tom Cleaver was tops with a score of 80 points and Chuck Knapp was second with a score of 79 points.

Saturday, the affirmative team journeyed to Harvey, where they engaged in the last round of the debate tournament sponsored by the Metropolitan Debate association. The squad, composed of Dan Walton and Kermit Ford won two rounds and lost two rounds, beating Roosevelt and Blue Island and losing to LaPorte and the George Rogers Clark School of Whiting, Ind.

Bob Virgil to compete in oratorical contest

Bob Virgil, senior, will represent Arlington Heights township high school in the fiftieth annual oratorical contest sponsored by the American Legion at Steinmetz high school March 7. The topic of Bob's oration is, "America's Best Aid — the Constitution."

The purpose of the contest is to create interest in and respect for the basic principles of our form of government. The orations are original, but must be on some phase of the constitution of the United States which will give emphasis to the attendant duties and obligations of a citizen of our government. The oration will last from ten to twelve minutes and must be given before an audience, without the use of any public address system.

The first winner in the state finals, which will be held March 21, will receive a gold medal and a four-year scholarship to the University of Illinois. The second prize is a silver medal and a two-year scholarship to the University of Illinois; the third award is a silver medal and a one-year scholarship to the University of Illinois, and the fourth award is a silver medal.

Girl Scouts to entertain mothers

The Mothers' club of St. Peter Lutheran school, Arlington Heights, will hold its regular meeting March 14 at 8 p.m. in the school basement.

WHODUNITS FOR THE YOUNG

Young people, like adults, appreciate the excitement of mystery stories and the escape they provide from the work-a-day world. The mysteries are usually solved by boys and girls and "these boys and girls often show a lot more sense than the befuddled characters in mysteries for grownups."

Rechnitzer's "Captain Jeep" (for ages 10-14) is an excellent example of the mystery which is based on personality. Watkin's book, "Venture West" (for ages 12-15) has a swift pace, good dialogue, humor, and a feeling for the western country.

"The Mystery of Hidden Village," by Nelson (ages 12-15) recounts the adventures of a girl and a boy who are instructed to buy a rickety old car and drive it to Arizona. In "The Haunts of Drowning Creek" (ages 11 to 15) Manly Wellman builds up tension by a skillful use of eerie atmosphere as three boys explore a rotting mansion and search for long-lost Confederate gold.

"Timber-line Treasure" (ages 10-14) is an action-packed tale of the mysteries of a cave in the Rockies. In "The Moth Men" (ages 12 to 15) Rochester has combined mystery with science fiction. Wing Commander Peregrine rakes the skies to track down the giant moths—are they insects or men?—which are scourging England. "The Mystery of the Alpine Casle," by Evatt (for ages 8 to 11) tells the adventures of a little girl living in the shadow of the Jungfrau. The six short stories in Coombs' "Young Readers' Detective Stories" (for ages 8-11) tell how level-headed boys plausibly solve such problems as the theft of a truck, a robbery in a zoo.

Other juvenile mysteries in Library are: "The Ghost Hollow Mystery," by Carter (for ages 8 to 12); "The Secret of Thunder Mountain," by Pallas (for ages 10 to 14); "The Treasure Box Mystery," by Selkirk (for ages 10 to 14), and "The House in Hiding," by Lyon (for ages 10-14).

Call out the Reserves with a touch of your toe!

Most cars lead a double life.

A good part of the time, they're running errands, taking children to school, taking women to stores, taking men to work, taking family and friends to clubs and social functions.

It doesn't call for a very great output of horsepower for duties like these.

But there are times when you want a car that can do vastly more, and these are the times when you'll want what this year's ROADMASTER has to offer.

Beneath its proud hood, there's a Fireball 8 Engine—a valve-in-head that can let loose 170 lively horsepower when needed.

And—alongside this engine—there's also an Airpower carburetor which thriftily feeds fuel and air through two smaller-than-usual barrels for normal driving—which means that you now use less gas at 40 than you'd formerly use at 30.

But there are two barrels in reserve—waiting for you to call them into action—and they let loose a soaring rush of power that sinks your shoulders back into the seat cushion, swoops you past a truck—out of a tight spot—up a hill—sets your speedometer needle to registering added miles more than twice as fast as your watch can tick off the seconds.

This is an experience you certainly should know firsthand.

You should also know how Buick's Power Steering* provides a helping hand in slow-motion maneuvers—lets you keep the "feel" of the car in straightaway driving.

And just for good measure, this '52 ROADMASTER also has the biggest brakes of any postwar Buick—the greatest trunk space since spare tires moved off the front fenders—a warning light that glows when the parking brake is set—and to top it all, the smartest interior fabrics that Buick has ever offered.

When are you coming in to look this distinguished performer over? We urge you to make it soon.

Equipment, accessories, trim and models are subject to change without notice.
Optional at extra cost on ROADMASTER only.*

Sure is true for '52

Milo Pippengers mark golden anniversary on son's silver, and grandson's wedding day

March 5 will be a date long remembered by Mr. and Mrs. Milo Pippenger of 1115 N. Dunton ave., Arlington Heights, for it marked their golden wedding anniversary, their son's twenty-fifth wedding anniversary and their grandson's wedding date.

The Rogers Park Woman's club was the scene of the threefold celebration. Their grandson, Joseph Irwin Pippenger Jr. of Chicago, was married earlier that day at the Country Church of the City and combined his wedding reception with the celebration of the twenty-fifth wedding anniversary of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Pippenger of Chicago, and his grandparents' golden anniversary. More than 175 guests enjoyed a midnight buffet supper.

Mr. and Mrs. Milo Pippenger, who have lived in Arlington Heights, for 13 years, were married March 5, 1902, in Goshen, Ind., where Mr. Pippenger taught grade school for six years for $35 a month.

Primarily for economic reasons Mr. Pippenger accepted a position in the postal transport division of the U. S. civil service. In 1926 the couple came to Chicago where they made their home for 13 years prior to their moving here.

After more than 38 years of service in the postal transport Mr. Pippenger retired in 1939. He is still an active member of the Postal Transport Association, and his wife is a member of the Auxiliary.

The Pippengers have two sons, Joseph of Chicago, who took part in the celebration, and Everett of 1113 N. Dunton ave., Arlington Heights. Joseph attended Northwestern university and at the age of 21 began his own commercial photostat and file advertising service, which developed into a successful business. Everett was graduated from Purdue university and is now an electrical engineer with the Public Service Co.

A doctor and a lawyer, respectively, will be added to the family when the Pippenger's two grandsons, Joseph and John, are graduated from Wabash college in Indiana. They are sons of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Pippenger. The Pippengers also have a granddaughter, Cinda, who lives with her parents.

Mr. Pippenger, who has become a garden enthusiast, is 74, and Mrs. Pippenger is 70. They attribute their happiness and good health to faith, sincerity and the spirit of family living.

Junior Women entertain at children's home

Five members of the Arlington Heights Junior Woman's club were hostesses March 24 at a party for 18 children of the Bensenville Children's Home.

It is the custom of the club to make annual Christmas trips to Bensenville as well as to the Addison Children's Home. Because of the bad weather during the holidays, however, the toys were sent over to the children at Bensenville, but the party itself was postponed until this time.

The afternoon was spent playing games with the children, who ranged in age from six to eight years, and the party was climaxed with ice cream and cookies.

The club is now making tentative plans for an Easter party for the children, and later, when weather permits, it is hoped that a picnic may be arranged.

In addition to these group activities, individual members of the club are planning to "adopt" one or two children for a day or a week end and will bring them into their homes for that time, or the children will be taken to visit the museums and aquarium in Chicago.

Miss Mary Ann Heimsoth is general chairman of this project, and the other club members who made the Bensenville trip were Mrs. Tom Meagle, Mrs. Ralph Windheim, Miss Elaine Allison and Miss Vae Holtz.

Contributions of hard candy, cookies, air mail stationery or pop corn will be picked up.

The next meeting will be held March 12 at 12:30 p. m. at Masonic temple in Des Plaines. During the business meeting, the by-laws will be read and there will be a vote on candidates for membership. Games and refreshments will follow.

Any grandmother of the northwest area wishing to join can obtain an application blank upon request from any member.

Favorites for Flavor

By LOIS SEILER

"Will you please make your Blitz Torte?" is the request always made of Mrs. Orville Helms of 203 N. Benton, Palatine, when she is asked to bake a cake for some social event.

Appealing to the eye as well as the palate, this torte has a delicious custard filling as well as a bottom layer of meringue and a meringue topping sprinkled with nuts or coconut.

Mrs. Helms has baked this Blitz Torte for the Palatine Junior Woman's club and for several birthday parties and luncheons.

The cake batter, which is creamy but stiff, is spread into two 9-inch layer cake tins. Both are topped with meringue, and the layer which is to be used as the top is sprinkled with chopped nutmeats or coconut.

After baking, the cakes are removed from the oven and allowed to cool. The bottom layer is then placed on a cake plate, meringue side down. A creamy custard filling is spread over this layer and then the other layer is placed on top of the filling, meringue side up.

The cake texture itself, although not high, is fine and solid. The filling and crunchy meringue add to the height of the torte.

"You're certain to have success with this torte if you make sure the egg whites for the meringue are beaten right," says Mrs. Helms. "Beat the whites with a dash of salt until they are very stiff, though still glossy, before adding the sugar. Then add the sugar gradually!"

Blitz Torte is best if eaten on the same day that it is made. It can be stored in the refrigerator, but not for more than a day or two at the most. This tasty torte serves 12 to 16 persons.

Blitz Torte

3/4 cup powdered sugar
½ cup margarine
4 egg yolks
½ tsp. vanilla
1 cup cake flour
1 tsp. baking powder
5 tbsp. milk

Cream butter and sugar. Add egg yolks, vanilla and then milk. Sift flour, measure 1 cup, and sift again with baking powder. Add to batter.

Pour batter into two 9-inch layer cake tins. Then prepare the meringue, using:

4 egg whites
Dash of salt
1 tsp. vanilla
1 cup granulated sugar

Beat egg whites with dash of salt until they are very stiff, but still glossy. Add vanilla. Then beat in very gradually 1 cup sugar.

Spread meringue over both tins of cake batter. Sprinkle nutmeats or coconut over one of the meringues.

Bake for 30 minutes in moderate oven, 325 to 350 degrees.

Custard Filling

1 egg
3 tbsp. sugar
1 tbsp cornstarch
1 cup sour cream
1 tsp. vanilla
½ tsp grated lemon (optional)

Beat egg and add sugar, cornstarch and sour cream. Cook in double boiler until thick. Add vanilla and lemon if desired. Let cool.

To prepare the cake for serving turn bottom layer, meringue side down, on cake plate. Spread with custard filling. Then place the other layer, with the nuts and coconuts, on top of this, meringue side up.

For the custard filling, a packaged vanilla pudding or a custard filling made with sweet milk can be used in place of the above filling.

'Your invitation to Spring' is theme of fashion show

Mrs. Richard Ross models one of the more formal dresses which will be shown when Arlington Heights Junior Woman's club presents its annual fashion show at the high school at 8:15 p.m., March 18. (AM Community Camera

Always a highlight on the club's annual calendar, this year's show is under the general chairmanship of Mrs. John Otzen. She is being assisted by the following members in charge of committees: Miss Pearl Miller, decorations; Miss Joycelyn Peterson, programs; Miss Ann Cox, music; Miss Lorraine Sargent, tickets; Mrs. George Rezner, refreshments, and Mrs. Ralph Windheim, publicity.

Tickets at $1 may be secured from any club member or at the door the evening of the show. Proceeds from this year's presentation will be divided among the various club philanthropies.

Organization committee performs vital duties for Girl Scouting here

by CONNIE KIMBLE

In every organization there are always some duties which everyone hates to perform, but which some smiling volunteer does get done, much to the relief of the board of directors.

With the Arlington Heights Girl Scout Council, that job is organization chairman, a title covering all the minute details of getting enough leaders to cover specific numbers of girls in certain grades and areas.

The troubles besetting this past year's chairman, Mrs. A. P. Fellingham, were numerous as usual: too many girls in one troop; too few in another; no leader for one group; three volunteers too many for another; etc.

In spite of the handicaps and details, Mrs. Fellingham and her committee organized ten new Brownie troops, 9 second grade troops and 1 third grade troop, with a maximum of 16 girls in each troop and 2 trained leaders for each. Two troops were split because the membership had become too large, and leaders were found for the new offshoot troops.

Finding leaders for intermediate troops was more difficult, according to Mrs. Fellingham, because the mothers and other leaders seem to find the older girls more of a challenge and are more hesitant in accepting troop responsibility.

This committee also supplied candidates names for leader training to the training chairman. New girls moving into town were channeled through the organization committee for placement into troops.

Future plans call for recruiting of leaders for the new second grade troops to be formed in the fall and seeing that these leaders get their training.

The new organization chairman is Mrs. Frank Harris.

Girl Scouts celebrate 40th anniversary

The nation will be celebrating an important birthday — the fourteeth year of Girl Scouting — March 12. Railroads such as the Illinois Central, C. and E. I., and the Greyhound bus lines will join in the saluting and celebrating. So will Stouffer's and Thompson's restaurants who plan special Girl Scout promotions on that day.

Collier's will mark the birthday with a special picture story in its March 15 issue, and the March issue of Ebony magazine promises a story too.

Arlington Heights Scouts will celebrate a day early when they hold their Girl Scout birthday party March 11 at 3:45 p. m. in the field house. Program chairman, Mrs. Melvin Born, is in charge of the event which promises a special birthday cake lighting, ceremony, favors, singing and entertainment.

All Brownies, Intermediates and adult Scouts are invited to attend he birthday party, which will also mark the ninth year of scouting in Arlington Heights.

When Girl Scouts were organized in Arlington in 1943, Rev William F. Kamphenkel was the first council president. The group then included 30 Brownies and 59 Intermediates, guided by a round dozen leaders.

Today Arlington boasts of 487 Girl Scouts in 21 Brownie troops and 9 Intermediate troops, plus 185 adult workers.

The Girl Scouts have received congratulatory messages from many nationally known celebrities including Marguerite Stitt Church, who stated, "I consider it a happy honor to salute the Birl Scout organization and the entire membership in full recognition of its outstanding achievement in providing leadership and training to thousands of American girls. Its program has enriched the health, gladdened the hearts and raised the ideals of citizens who will continue to make an irreplaceable contribution to American life."

Presenting the Younger Generation

Litle miss

This big laugh and twinkling eyes are characteristics of Kathy Cagle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Cagle of 803 N. Harvard, Arlington Heights.

Kathy is 15 months old and is quite a bit bigger than she was when this picture was snapped. She has light brown hair and blue eyes. This little miss hasn't started to walk yet; she still finds crawling a fine means of locomotion.

Kathy's favorite toy is a wee puppy and her favorite playmate is her brother, Bobby, pictured next. "She's lost when Bobby is away," stated Mrs. Cagle.

Buckaroo Bobby

Bobby Cagle is 4½ years old and has blond hair and blue eyes. A more appropriate name for this little fellow might well be "Buckaroo." When he isn't playing with little sis, he is "chasing the gun-men of outlaw gangs" or "riding his broncho on dangerous trails." "Bobby got cowboy boots for Christmas," said his mother, "and I don't think he's had them off since."

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Morrison of 803 N. Harvard, Arlington Hts., are the maternal grandparents of the children. Mr. and Mrs. V. W. Cagle of Stockton, Calif., are the paternal grandparents. Mrs. M. Bierma of Arlington Hts. and Mrs. Cagle of Anna, Ill., are their two great-grandmothers.

Almost three

The smiling young man pictured next is Joseph Michael Stefanik, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Stefanik of 625 N. Kaspar, Arlington Heights. Joseph has blond hair, blue eyes and will celebrate his third birthday in April.

"Joseph gets a big bang out of watching commercials on television," said Mrs. Stefanik. Whenever the commercials come on, Joseph and his little sister run to see them. Toy airplanes and his bicycle are favorites.

Serious and sweet

Serious and sweet in her print dress with its ruffled yoke is Susan Marie Stefanik, sister of Joseph.

Susan is 20 months old, has blonde hair and blue eyes. She loves to talk and does a good job for a little girl not quite 2 years old. When she doesn't pronounce something clearly, brother Joseph is quick to correct her. Honey bear, a favorite cuddly toy, goes to bed with this little one.

Grandparents of the Stefanik children are Mr. and Mrs. Marion Franciskovich of S. State rd., Arlington Heights, and Mr. and Mrs. J. Stefanik of 625 N. Kaspar, Arlington Heights.

Leslie Ann Thieman, bride of W. Hinrichs

Bak photo

St. Paul Evangelical and Reformed church, Palatine, was the scene February 23 of the wedding of Miss Leslie Ann Thieman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold W. Thieman of 149 W. Johnson st., Palatine, and Walter H. Hinrichs, son of Henry Hinrichs of Kirchhoff rd., Palatine.

Rev. Glenn Gumm officiated at the candlelight ceremony held at 7 p.m. Snapdragons and carnations decorated the altar. Herschel Keefer, brother-in-law of the bride, sang "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer" accompanied by Harold Berg at the organ.

The bride wore a gown of chantilly lace over white satin fashioned with a fitted bodice, roll lapel collar and a lace shirt with a court train. Her fingertip length veil was held in place by a smocked bonnet trimmed with seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of white snapdragons with a pink camelia in the center.

Mrs. Carol Keefer of South Bend, Ind., sister of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore a gown of ombre satin shaded from rose pink to cherry red and carried a bouquet of blue carnations tied with silver ribbons.

Mrs. Elaine Christison of Elkhorn, Wis., Miss Sylvia Weide and Mrs. Rosemary La Mountain were the bridesmaids. They wore rose pink, blue ombre and blue satin gowns, respectively matching that of the matron of honor and carried cascade bouquets of carnations.

The couple are making their home at 255 W. Slade st., Palatine.

Nancy Ann Hempel, John Carl Stone wed

Miss Nancy Ann Hempel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Hempel of 5347 Giddings st., Chicago, became the bride of John Carl Stone, who is now stationed at Ft. Belvidere, Md., and formerly resided at 606 S. State rd., Arlington Heights.

Father Sullivan officiated at the 11:30 a. m. ceremony held at Our Lady of Victory church February 23.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Stone of Glendale, Calif.

The bride wore a white satin gown trimmed with lace and fashioned with a long train. Her fingertip length veil was held in place by a white satin bonnet and she carried a bouquet of white calla lilies.

Mrs. Shirley Giacomino, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore a gown of pale pink orchid net over purple taffeta and carried a bouquet of yellow carnations.

Words often misused

Use "hardly" to express degree, "scarcely" to express quantity. Say, "She is "hardly well enough to go," and, "I have scarcely enough paper."

Do not speak of "the biography of his life." "Of his life" is superfluous, as "biography" means "the written history of one's life."

Do not say, "We bought the apples off of a peddler." Say, "We bought the apples from a peddler."

Do not say, "The enormity of the building surprised me." Say, "The enormousness of the building," when referring to size or amount. Use "enormity" when referring to evil, or wickedness; as, "the enormity of the crime."

Do not say, "I disremember," in the sense of "I forget." There is no such word in good usage.

Avoid such expressions as, "It's the honest truth," "It's an honest fact," and, "Its an actual fact." All facts and truths are honest and actual. Merely say, "It's the truth," and "It's a fact."

Words often mispronounced

Linguist. Pronounce in two syllables as ling-guist, and not ling-gu-wist, sometimes heard.

Debonair. Pronounce deb-o-nar, e as in bed, o as in no unstressed, a as in air, accent last syllable.

Corroborate. Pronounce the second syllable as rob, not as robe.

Pincers. Pronounce as spelled, pin-sers, and not pin-chers.

Verecund (bashful). Pronounce ver-e-kund, first e as in bet, second e as in me unstressed, u as in but, accent first syllable.

Intrigue. Pronounce in-treg'e as in tree, accent second syllable.

Rich textured wall panels beautify room

A richly textured wall enhances the appearance of a game room, den, entry hall or dining area. When the covering has the appearance of Spanish grain leather, one can visualize the decorative effect.

Now available is a hardboard panel with an embossed surface. It may be found in lumber yards in panels four feet wide and up to 12 feet in length. Known as Masonite Leatherwood, the panels are only one-eighth inch thick, but they are exceptionally strong and wear-resistant.

EVEN THE amateur craftsman can put them up, either in new construction or over a solid backing. They may be used for walls, wainscots, cabinet work, all kinds of paneling jobs, cupboards, shadow boxes and many other places requiring beauty and durability.

No special tools are required, just a saw, hammer or mastic trowel. The joints between panels are no problem, either, as leather welting, available in a wide assortment of types and colors at all upholstery stores, blends beautifully with Leatherwood's rich appearance. Other unusual decorative effects may be achieved through the use of upholstery nails, metal molding or tone-on-tone painting.

LIKE OTHER hardboards made by exploding wood chips, Leatherwood may be bent for curved architectural effects. Without preparation, it can be bent to a radius of 14 inches. By first thoroughly moistening the board, you can reduce the radius to 10 inches.

Leatherwood requires little upkeep. In is natural dark brown color, it requires no maintenance except an occasional waxing or application of penetrating sealer.

Rise Stevens, Paul Lavalle to head music festival

Rise Stevens, Metropolitan opera star; Paul Lavalle, conductor of the Cities Service band of America, and Will Rossiter, 85-year-old Chicago music publisher and composer, will star in the 23rd annual Chicagoland Music Festival sponsored by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., and directed by Philip Maxwell.

Festival stars are being announced in the 1952 Festival brochure, which, beginning Mar. 3, will be sent to 10,000 musical organizations and individuals in the United States and Canada.

Henry Weber, general musical director of WGN Mutual, and Dr. Edgar Nelson, again will be general musical and choral leaders in the Festival. Capt. Howard Stube and Fred Miller, who have been identified with the event since 1930, will be back as general instrumental director and field supervisor. Stanley Johnston will be assistant Festival director; Miss Bess Vvdra is Festival secretary. John Rieck is chairman of vocal contests and John Kilroy will be ticket manager.

Eighteen preliminary Festivals will be held throughout the United States prior to August 23.

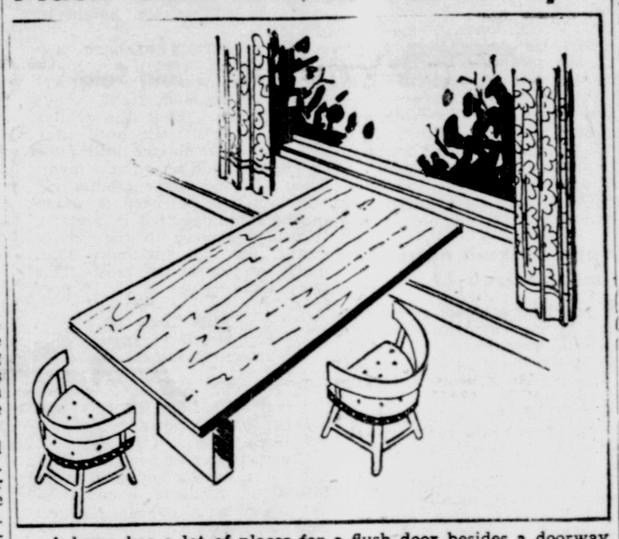
Persons wishing information concerning the festival contests should write to music festival headquarters, room 468, Chicago Tribune, Chicago 11.

Milk payments

Cook - DuPage county dairy farmers received $3,270.45 for milk delivered to Bowman Dairy company receiving stations during the month of January. Monthly figures are sent to this newspaper as soon as they are compiled at Bowman's general office.

Lightweight champion Jimmy Carter gets in shape for his ten round battle with Luther Rawlings in the Chicago Stadium March 12. Rawlings is the No. 1 contender for Carter's championship. If he can beat Carter, he is assured of a title match some time this spring for the 135 pound crown.

Flush door makes table top



A home has a lot of places for a flush door besides a doorway. Essentially just a rectangle of hardwood plywood with attractive wood veneer as the outside layers, a flush door makes a good-looking, economical table top. Put legs under it and the table is finished. The flush door table sketched here is attached at one end to the wall under a picture window. A flush door table top has a smooth, gleaming wood veneer surface that can be quickly wiped clean. Light and dark woods are available to suit any style of decoration.

At Orchestra Hall

Moura Lympany, distinguished British pianist, makes her first Chicago appearance at the concerts of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra this week at Orchestra Hall, performing the familiar Schumann A Minor Concerto under the baton of Rafael Kubelik.

At the beginning of the Thursday evening-Friday afternoon, March 6 and 7, concert pair Mr. Kubelik and the orchestra will pay tribute to the late Edward Collins, well known Chicago composer, pianist and teacher.

The regular program of these concerts will also honor Felix Borowski, noted Chicago composer and critic, on the occasion of his eightieth birthday which falls on March 10. The orchestra will play Borowski's Symphony No. 2, E Minor.

In the future

A new type coffee can opener avoids fuss with the winding key. The device is punched into the top of the can in much the same manner as a beer can opener and acts as a pouring spout . . . Those who live in small apartments or homes where space is limited will be interested in a newly marketed chest seat which has two spacious storage drawers . . . A colorful rolling pin plaque for the kitchen wall is now available. It features salt and pepper shakers, a flower or recipe holder and hooks for three potholders . . . Ten of the smaller coffee houses have banded together and will soon market a new instant coffee under ten different labels.

Bits o' business

If the hoped-for suspension of lead import duties becomes a reality, supplies may reach 100,000 tons in March, best month in a long while . . . A 13.5 per cent drop in what consumers pay for eggs was the principal factor in the food price index drop of .5 per cent between December 26 and January 15 . . . The Commerce Department reports personal income rose to $251 billion in 1951 compared with $225 billion in 1950. Wage and salary earners accounted for the biggest jump . . . In the next two years manpower needs should rise 3½ million to a total of 68 million, according to Labor Secretary Tobin. In that time the total of available workers will probably rise to near the 70 million mark.

Concordia to improve and expand facilities

Concordia college, Milwaukee, will receive $525,000 of the proposed $10,000,000 extra-budgetary offering soon to be gathered by the Lutheran church-Missouri Synod for improving and expanding its facilities.

Concordia college is one of ten preparatory schools operated by the Missouri Synod in its training program for pastors and teachers.

Part of the money will be used for the construction of a new dormitory to replace the outmoded gray stone building known to alumni as "Old State." A new administration building is also being planned.

The original proposal for the $10,000,000 expansion program was approved by the church at its regular triennial convention held in June 1950 on the Concordia campus.

Location of garden important to success

Location of your garden is mighty important in the success of your efforts, says the 1952 Illinois Garden Guide, just issued by three vegetable crops men in the University of Illinois.

B. L. Weaver, W. A. Huelsen and Lee Somers say that location is just as important as training and know-how, sustained interest and effort.

IN FARMS and small towns, the ideal garden site is a well-protected area of loan sloping a bit to the south. Plenty of sunshine is essential, and so is freedom from trees and shrubs —they take plant food and water from beyond their shade line.

In cities, a vacant lot that has good soil and that is open to sunshine can be used. But it's hopeless to try gardening where tall buildings shut out sunlight or where there is too deep a fill of excavated dirt.

ROOT CROPS like potatoes and carrots need soil that does not become hard and compact as it dries out.

Your garden site should be well drained or capable of being well drained. Too much moisture is not good for most vegetables. Plant roots must have air. When the soil is soaked with water, no air reaches the roots, and they die.

YOU CAN DRAIN a wet garden by laying tile in the soil or by digging shallow furrows to take away surface water. Or in city gardens you might raise the level of the planted rows a few inches above surrounding soil.

Group gardening is especially recommended for city families who have not suitable garden site.

Romance of Jewelry

To make fair comparison of which gems are most valuable, identical degrees of excellence of each gem's varying qualities must first be established. The futility of this task is obvious, but broadly, the diamond, ruby, emerald and sapphire rank at the top.

There are many times more diamonds worn than any other costly gem, yet diamonds have maintained their position because of their tremendous and universal popularity.

Diamonds have four qualities that establish value—not just one. If all diamonds were identical in each of these qualities, then evaluating and buying would be as simple as buying ice—just so much a pound or carat-weight. But this misleading weight factor is by far the least important in determining the gem's value. Yet it is the only quality that may be judged by the untrained. For that reason, weight (carat), is the first consideration by which the layman may be mistakenly influenced.

Easy for the prospective purchaser to remember are the four factors for evaluating a diamond —color, clarity, cutting and least of all, carat weight (size). All gems have carat-weight, but rare is fine color, rare is flawless clarity, and rare is precise cutting. The combination of these rarities in a single gem assures you of maximum value.

Diamonds may be cut in any one of many shapes and forms. Some of these cuts are termed emerald, pendeloque, marquise and square. By far the most popular, however, is the brilliant cut, a round-girdled diamond having 58 surfaces or facets. These facets are in related angle to each other in such a manner as to reflect, bend and scatter a maximum barrage of light rays. The intensity of the "fire" is directly related to the accuracy of the angles.

It is obvious how the poorly cut diamond would "leak" light rays that should have been bounced from facet to facet, finally being transmitted to the eye. There are exact proportions of mathematical "ideal" against which a diamond may be checked.

Did you know

That there is a genuine gem stone which is green by day and red by night?

That there are 32 different green stones, 28 yellow stones, 22 blue stones, etc., similar in color, but varying in species and, therefore, in value? That there are blue topaz and green garnets?

That there are no such gem substances as synthetic zircon or synthetic garnet?

New field of study to be investigated

A new field affecting Illinois farmers will be studied by a newly appointed staff member in the University of Illinois College of Agriculture.

He is Kirk Fox Jr., whose job is to look into the economics of the food industry. He will consider such questions as what factors affect the location of food plants like packing plants.

Fox, son of the editor of Successful Farming magazine, was named research associate in food industries in the food technology department, effective February 15.

He was graduated from the University of Chicago in June 1948 and received his master's degree from that institution in December 1951. He worked with the Cowles Foundation on developing the use of statistics in economic research and also taught part-time at Northwestern University.

Fox, aged 30, is married and has one child and is a Navy veteran.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

That man, as the child of God, can prove his sonship by putting off every evil work and doing the will of God, will be explained in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, March 9. The title of the Lesson-Sermon is "MAN."

The Golden Text is from Daniel (10:19) "O man greatly beloved, fear not: peace be unto thee, be strong, yea be strong."

Lesson-Sermon passages from the Bible (King James Version) include the following:

"Make a joyful noise unto the Lord, all ye lands . . . Know ye that the Lord he is God: it is he that hath made us, and not we ourselves; we are his people, and the sheep of his pasture" (Ps. 100: 1, 3).

Selections from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, include:

"Because of human ignorance of the divine Principle, Love, the Father of all is represented as a corporeal creator; hence men recognize themselves as merely physical, and are ignorant of man as God's image or reflection and of man's eternal incorporeal existence . . . God and man are not the same, but in the order of divine Science, God and man coexist and are eternal" (pp. 13, 336).

In the Shadow of + + + The Steeple

by William O. McGill

In last week's effort, we initiated reconnaissance to see why the crime and corruption problem has become so intense in recent months and years. Perhaps the largest point of importance was that the forces which normally are the forces of right, have compromised themselves in too many ways.

Let us turn now to the question of tactics. What can the average citizen do to combat the people who reach into our pockets to help themselves, and who corrupt our young people with dope, with promises of easy money, and with a flabby moral conscienceness?

LET ME REFER to the prohibition period. In that era, there was a generally unpopular law; many of the better citizens, as well as the less desirable, violated the letter and the spirit of that law. Since it was the law, materials contrary to the law could only be supplied in large quantity by those who disregarded laws in general. In the case of narcotics, for instance, this popular disapproval of the law is not present.

In the case of influence-peddling, we must ask ourselves, "Does my resentment rise because these people have done this?" or "Does it arise because they did it, and I did not?" It is necessary to be sure of the grounds upon which we protest.

In any effort to clean house, we may have to admit that our own rooms and our hands are not clean. The tenor of Whittaker Chambers' "I Was a Witness," suggests that one must know that he is for something, and that he has consciously disavowed one way of life for another. Many of us have been acquiescent for a long time in the face of the threat to our way of living. We have abandoned the moral law and trusted in legality.

WHAT WE HAVE lacked has been the direct approach of many men of business and affairs. In their business, there are many who say, "This is what ought to be done; get on the job and let's do it." Most of them have not brought the same direction and drive to their civic and moral responsibility.

Next to direction, there must be a willingness to "let the chips fall where they may." Let's get all the facts we can on the extent of corruption and the infiltration of crime, and let us tell our prosecutors to follow through on every possible case.

And let's get on the political job. Political machines have learned that there is no substitute for public relations if they want to stay in power. Nobody works like a precinct captain. The "captain" knows his people, he talks over everything with them, for the sake of his own job. How much more important that you, who believe in good government and basic law enforcement, should work harder than the precinct captain.

In Gary, it was the women's clubs, and the women over the back fence, who brought about the possibility of reform, and who carried through to a general reform of the city government. In Louisville, Ky., it was the men's clubs, and the men ate their lunches who cleaned first the jails and then the other areas of Louisville law enforcement.

IN EACH CASE, they began by deploring awful conditions; then they examined the conditions and selected initial steps, met them; they examined again and selected further steps, met them; and went on by examination and analysis to other steps.

You can get going; join the crime commission, your membership fees will bring you the regular studies made by the Commission and set a full scale of facts before you; read Kefauver's "Crime in America;" see if your organization can arrange to have someone active in the fight for better government, come as a speaker and participate in a discussion. Then talk about it, at business lunches and bridge clubs; at social gatherings and political meetings.

This thing is bigger than any political party. Go after the candidates before you in the coming months; be sure you know where they stand and how long they have stood there, and make it plain to them that you are not going to take a four year nap after they are elected.

But the first, and most vital question you must answer is, "What kind of society do I want to live in?" and "why?" A moral consciousness is the first requirement of the citizen.

Giving blood

One pint of blood for every day in the year was the recent donation of members of the City College of New York Reserve Officers Training Corps to the First Army's blood donor campaign. The ROTC students' 365 pints of blood represented donations from approximately 80 per cent of the CCNY corps.

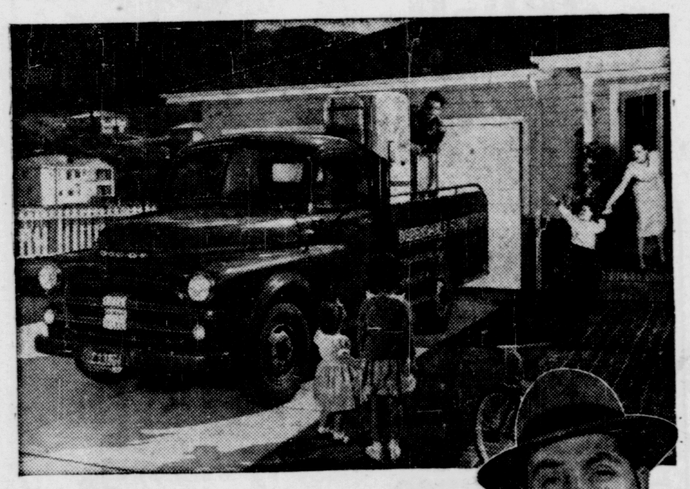
Facts truck owners should know about hauling bigger payloads



"With our new Dodge, the payload is high, the cost per mile low!"

says MORRIS SAPIR
Dependable Furniture Company, Oakland, California

"After using Dodge 'Job-Rated' trucks for eight years exclusively, I want to report that your new models are keeping me sold on Dodge.

"No vehicle we have ever seen can give our drivers more freedom in city traffic than our Dodge 1-ton truck. With our new Dodge, the payload is high, the cost per mile low."

WANT to know why you can carry more payload with Dodge "Job-Rated" trucks?

First, they've got better weight distribution. This means that bigger payload capacity is engineered into a Dodge "Job-Rated" truck. Many trucks carry too much weight on the rear axle, not enough on the front. But in a Dodge truck, the right proportion of the load is carried on each axle.

Besides this better weight distribution, a shorter wheelbase provides easier turning, easier parking. Come in and try one of these payload-packin', easier-handling trucks for yourself. Get all the facts about hauling bigger payloads.

Carry more! In Dodge "Job-Rated" trucks, the engine is placed forward and the front axle back —for better distribution of the load. You can carry bigger payloads—without overloading.

Haul faster! Dodge "Job-Rated" trucks are powered by high-compression engines to give you top performance with rock-bottom economy. Big power gives you pull and speed that save time.

Get longer life! There's a Dodge truck that's "Job-Rated" to fit your road and load condition —with load-carrying and load-moving units factory-engineered to stand up on toughest service.

See us today for the best buy in low-cost transportation...

SHOPPING with SHARON

We have now progressed to the stage where we can begin to paint the kitchen after a pleasant session of washing Saturday. Mr. Kehe at Webber Paint Co. was telling me about the new mohair type of roller applicator. It's excellent for rubber based paint, enamels, and water-thinned paint.

This new applicator will give a smoother finish . . . it's easier to apply with the mohair applicator . . . and you use less paint. Your work will be done in half the time with this roller, and you'll be proud of the fact that there are no streaks.

Webber's have all sorts of aids to ease your cleaning problem—sponges, cleaning solvents, etc. I don't know what we would do without our favorite cleaning solvent; guess we still wouldn't be finished.

The new Picture Craft set at Webber's is a set of oil paints complete with canvas for $2.95. In this unusual set the oils and their respective places on the canvas are numbered. The subject is outlined . . . and when completed these look like actual oils.

St. Peter pupils to aid in Missouri Synod 'Conquest for Christ'

Pupils of St. Peter Lutheran school, Arlington Heights, began Monday to work on the church's $10,000,000 extension program, "Conquest for Christ," which is being participated in by all Missouri synod Lutheran churches.

Each pupil has been given a beautifully designed cut-out church, which was assembled, taken home and placed in a prominent place to serve as a constant reminder to all members of the family of the great missionary fund drive.

A large work map has been hung on each classroom wall, which portrays the far-flung work of the church in the United States. Special cut-outs accompany each map, which are used to emphasize the five points of the children's project: city home missions; rural home missions, special home missions, foreign missions, college and seminaries.

Special work books, one for the lower grades and one for the upper grades, based on the theme, "I Love to Tell the Story," are another special highlight of the expansion program. These work books and maps will help in explaining to the children where their gifts will be used.

Each pupil has been given a coin folder especially designed for children, which are to be returned at the end of the month.

EMPLOYEE GET-TO-GETHERS

by Laura Grothe, Lois Hemlich, and Patricia Radecki

In the traditional sense, the social committee of our school system is chosen to perform such tasks as send cards, flowers or gifts to employees in case of serious or long illness, and greetings to board members and administrators at Christmas time.

They are called on to assist the social committee chairman, of the Arlington Area Educators council, when a dinner meeting is scheduled in our cafeteria. They usually help with the picnic during the pre-school planning conference.

This year the committee is enlarging its program somewhat and attempting to do a better job of helping the employees get better acquainted and to supply needed recreational opportunities.

THE FIRST thing we did was to compile lists with suggested activities which they might check according to their interests. The results show the following areas to be the most popular: volley ball, badminton, square dancing, swimming, bowling, golfing, horse back riding, theater parties, tours, card playing, ice skating, bike riding, knitting, and hiking.

A card party was held February 22 in the Junior high school cafeteria. It was well attended. In addition to playing canasta, bridge and pinochle, special entertainment was provided. One time during the evening a magnetic eye was at work. Keys, buttons, and fingernails were at a premium. An applause meter helped determine one winner. Soft drinks and pop corn were served. The apparent success of this first party encourages the committee to continue with the new venture for the remainder of the school year.

An evening of indoor sports and square dancing is on the agenda at present. We hope to break into the news now and then with accounts of our social exploits.

Hanging on

Milk and egg production so far last year are held almost level with a year earlier despite the somewhat shorter feed supplies and rising farm costs.

LETTERS of Judge Banks ... to his daughter

My dear Daughter:

When you children were infants, Mother and I started everyone of you on a savings career. The method was simple ... just an ordinary piggy bank. How you youngsters loved to hear the tinkle of a coin dropped in the bank ... and shaking it to hear it jingle was great fun.

When you became older and were earning your own spending money, you continued to use the same bank. Only, when you wanted those little extras ... like that formal for the prom .. you had your own money to spend.

Money saved like this is "found money". You were careful about the amounts you spent out of your savings, and wanted to make deposits in your savings account regularly.

IN AMERICA, even the children learn the habit of saving along with their love of LIBERTY

FFA to compete in parliamentary procedure contest at Lake Zurich

Members of the Arlington Heights chapter of the Future Farmers of America will compete in a contest in parliamentary procedure to be held March 12 at Ela-Vernon high school, Lake Zurich.

Kenneth Jacobsen and Herbert Rechamp, members of last year's team which won second place, will join three inexperienced members to form this year's team in parliamentary procedure.

The Future Farmers of America work on many interesting projects during the year to gain experience and training in agricultural problems. In their afternoon classes in agriculture and during free periods, Kenneth Allison, Marvin Engelking, and Winfield Koelling are getting tractors in shape by painting them and doing such minor repairs as magneto points and spark plug gaps.

Another interesting project is being worked out with the help of Martin C. Mayer, Arnold Brockman, and Orland Brockman. These men are converting a wagon into a self-unloading wagon during the afternoons in the agriculture shop in order to demonstrate procedures to the adult evening class in agriculture and the Future Farmers of America. Joseph Bryson is the instructor in agriculture and the adviser of the Future Farmers.

Newborn babes to get free railroad passes

With America's population increasing at the rate of 7,000 per day, the Chicago and North Western Railway System has started a promotional campaign aimed at making future rail passengers out of as many of this bumper crop of babies as possible.

North Western representatives both on-line and off-line throughout the United States have been supplied with token "baby passes" which they mail to as many newborn as possible. The "pass," which bears the baby's name, is a reminder that children under five are carried free by the railroads, a practice dating back to the earliest days of railroading.

With each pass goes a letter welcoming the new arrival to a wonderful, exciting land and, of course, "mom and dad" are invited to bring baby for a ride on a "400" streamliner real soon.

A Landmark in Literature

"ULYSSES," by James Joyce
(Notes from Invitation to Learning)

The person beginning to read Joyce's "Ulysses" may feel that the book is appallingly long, but in the actual reading it becomes delightfully long instead.

LIKE MOST great books it can be appreciated on several levels. It is certainly a comedy in the Dantean sense, but it is also a comedy of humor; it has many, loud laughs. The critics may keep "Finnegan's Wa'te," Joyce's puzzle for scholars, but "Ulysses" we must take back from them and read for fun.

"Ulysses" is the story of three people—Stephen Daedalus and Molly and Leopold Blum—in a single day in Dublin. Very little happens, though there is a threat of action. There is a mass of detail which is a delight in itself, but which also serves a symbolic function. Dublin is a microcosm and Joyce is giving a vision of general humanity.

In his book two men are lonesome; they cannot make a satisfactory contact with fellow human beings. It is a study of mankind's isolation and of the father-son relationship. Joyce brings this out by the analogies of Hamlet and the ghost, Telemachus and Odysseus. There is also the analogy of Stephen's quest with that of Dante's and of Blum's, with Odysseus'. These parallels enlarge the meaning of the book; they give it universality.

STEPHEN, Molly and Leopold make up a trinity—a composite which represents mankind. It is dubious whether they arrive at a solution. Joyce may be saying that man makes a mistake in seeking moral grandeur, and yet he may mean that man's glory is that besides being earthy, he strives for other things.

At any rate it is a book of great acceptance. Joyce can teach us to trust our human side. Molly represents the essential earthiness of mankind. Joyce is so frank in his portrayal of the thoughts of the human animal that his book could not be brought into the United States for years after its publication, and yet there is no undue proportion of the fleshly.

Joyce is not actually assaulting Puritanism but rather exposing us for contemplation. "Ulysses" may baffle, bother and disguest after conventional books, but read with an open mind it is vivid and lively and inspiring.

Psychology prof to speak before Catholic men

Rev. Charles Doyle, S. J., professor of psychology at Loyola university, will speak on "Trouble Shooting with the Unhappy Child" March 11 at an open meeting of the Holy Name society of St. James Catholic church, Arlington Heights. The meeting will be held in the basement of the new church at 8:30 p.m.

Father Doyle is a director at the Center For Guidance, Chicago, which specializes in parental counseling and youth guidance.

The men of the society, through its president, Frank Cowan, extend an invitation to all parents in Arlington Heights and others interested in the problems of youth.

Forty Years of Girl Scouting

GIRL SCOUTS LOOK BACK 40 YEARS. More than a million and a half Girl Scouts in every state are celebrating their organization's 40th anniversary during 1952. Founded in Savannah, Ga., March 12, 1912, by Juliette Gordon Low, Girl Scouting has grown continuously in size and popularity through four decades. Although Girl Scouts today wear trim green uniforms instead of the bulky khaki outfits of yesteryear, they haven't changed much in their interests; homemaking, camping, international friendship, nature study, and community service have always been favorite activities.

'Fainting room' held practical for churches

There's something about churches which seems to cause people to faint more often than in other interiors. Perhaps crowded holy day ceremonies or the fasting conditions which many people observe are chiefly responsible. Be that as it may, a well-equipped "fainting room," or first-aid room, is a practical part of any church or holy edifice.

The furniture required for such a room need not be elaborate, but it should be long-lasting, since all the other materials that go into a church or school are chosen for their durability. Usually metal furniture is a good selection, because if its appearance. Either chrome-plated steel furniture or steel pieces finished in colorful baked enamel make the room an inviting place. In addition, the gleaming colors have a definite therapeutic effect, physicians say, which accounts for the wide variety of metal furniture now being purchased by hospitals.

Among the furniture which should be in every church "fainting room" is a chaise lounge. If it's covered in genuine leather or leatherette it will last indefinitely. One or two side chairs or arm chairs also are practical. A small vanity table with a mirror also is a good selection, since it can be used to store whatever first-aid items are necessary, and it will be useful and valuable to women. Smelling salts, an antiseptic solution and some bandages should be among the equipment in the room.

Also included in the furniture should be a costumer and some ash trays. The room need not be large, but it should be a definite part of any church, school or large meeting place.

Seeing conditions in schools important to students' eyes

Most of the eyesight problems of school children could be prevented by better seeing conditions in school rooms, according to Dr. H. E. Lang, president of the Illinois Optometric Association, who announced that the twenty-sixth annual "Save Your Vision Week" will be observed March 2 to 8.

"An unfavorable visual environment not only handicaps a child in his school work, but it may warp his posture and interfere with his personality development," Dr. Lang said.

"When a child must twist into an abnormal position to get light on his work or to shade his eyes from glare, he grows that way. Many adults have curved spines, head tilts and uneven shoulders as a result of the lighting in their childhood classrooms.

"Unless a child can see well he may lose interest in school and turn to anti-social behavior to occupy his time. His personality and character may be affected by his visual handicap."

Dr. Lang said there is general agreement among educators, vision specialists, architects and other authorities on the requirements for modern school lighting, decorating and furnishing, and the accepted principles should be followed in new building or remodeling projects.

MAC SAYS

BY G. A. McELROY

With the addition of from 150 to 200 Northbrook tuition students next year along with a record freshmen class of their own, Palatine township high school will outgrow the rest of the Northwest conference in no time at all. Palatine will probably have an enrollment in excess of 700 next year of which 440 will be freshmen and sophomores. The estimated breakdown is 230 freshmen, 210 sophomores, 135 juniors, and 125 seniors.

Athletic numbers misleading due to number of frosh-sophs

This increase will not mean Palatine will necessarily take the position left by the departing Barrington Bronchos and dominate the league in athletics. The preponderance of frosh-sophs will prevent that but should most of the athletes from this year's Northbrook junior class elect to graduate from Palatine next year, the Pirates would be quite a lot stronger in sports, especially football.

Palatine's sports program will have to be expanded to properly equip, train, and organize competition for the numerous freshmen and sophomores who will be enrolled. Palatine will definitely be ready for four squads in basketball including varsity, junior varsity, sophomores, and freshmen groups plus an extensive intramural program. It is expected the new gym will be ready for use by physical education classes by November next fall and the dressing rooms will definitely be ready by fall with possible use this spring for track and baseball.

Growing up to a large school in the course of one year will present many problems but it is certainly economy for the community to have the new facilities used to near capacity from the start. Palatine high will continue to house six rooms of second grade children for the elementary school until a new building is constructed by their district.

We think Hebron will go all the way this year

This is regional tournament week and the big tests are coming up for Coach Ahearn's Hebron Green Giants who have been rated first in the state most of the season. No team going through a district tournament has ever won the state. Hebron played in the Richmond district last week and now takes on Woodstock, Crystal Lake and probably Elgin in the regional at Elgin. If they survive, and it seems that they have too much all 'round class for their opponents, they would meet the winner of the Barrington regional in the first round at the Waukegan sectional.

To most observers it appears that Hebron has the tougher task this week for the sectional will not be as strong as the Elgin tournament. Barrington, doped to easily go through their own tourney this year, might have some trouble unless they are sharp and just how they can be real sharp for teams they have already beaten once or twice is the question. The Barrington tournament is made to order for an upset but we doubt very much if it will be Barrington who is dumped unexpectedly. The Bronchos are very good but do not appear to be anywhere near as strong as they were a year ago.

However, we saw them play only Palatine and most of the coaches do not share our view. By the way, we are going to pick an all-tournament team for the Barrington regional and it will not be a coaches' selection, as was the all-conference squad.

John Eakins took up where Jay Vawter left off Friday night for Arlington against Riverside when he swished the nets for 22 points, as Vawter was held to just 11 scores.

Faculty-'A' club game Tuesday at Arlington

Arlington Heights high school faculty basketball team (?) will attemp to make it 5-2 over the "A" club squad Tuesday night, March 11, in the new gym in the annual renewal of the year-end game for local fans.

The faculty made it 4-2 last year. Coaching the "perfessors" will be Wally Grace, while leading the "A" club boys, with seniors but no varsity members on the squad, will be Jay Vawter and LeRoy Fredricks.

Twelve boys will make up the "A" club team, with juniors filling in for a possible lack of seniors.

SECRET PRACTICES are being held by the faculty five-by-fives with Curtis Larsen certain to be in shape. An attempt has been made to get the coaches to shave points for this crucial contest, but no evidence has been uncovered to date.

Admission to the contest is 50c for adults, 30c for students. Doors will open at 7 p. m. with game time set for 8 p. m. Referees will possibly be alumni no longer afraid to call fouls against the faculty.

BETWEEN-HALF ceremonies will feature a part of the initiation of new "A" club members. Going into the lettermen's organizaion at this time are boys earning major A's in football, basketball, wrestling and cross country.

TV wrestlers at Arlington

Wrestling stars of television will be matched in the ring at the new gymnasium of the Arlington Heights high school. The Arlington Lions have secured some of TV's best to put on a real show for sports fans March 29, all for the benefit of the Lions' charity fund.

Such stars as Verne Gagne, Fred Van Schacht, Billy Goelz, The Great Balbo, Rudy Kay, Al Williams, Farmer Don Marlin, and Art Bull will be featured in three matches.

Gagne and Van Schacht will meet in the heavyweight division for the best 2 out of 3 falls within a 1 hour time limit. Goelz and Balbo, light heavyweights, will go for 1 fall or a 30 minute time limit. The other four are featured in a tag team match for two out of 3 falls, or 60 minutes.

Seats in the reserved section, main floor and first balcony, are now selling for $2.60, the only seats available until the night of the matches when the remaining 500 seats in the second balcony will go on sale for $1.50 when the box office opens at 7 p. m.

This is the second wrestling show that the Lions have staged and they expect to fill the gymnasium of 4,000 seats by the time the first match begins at 8:30.

Dart league nears end of season's play

Last week's games found Immanuel playing at Faith and St. Paul at St. Peter. Faith scored two victories over Immanual while St. Paul took two from St. Peter to retain their one-game league lead.

The previous week Faith had scored two victories over St. Paul to tie for first place, but St. Paul came back in the third game to again take the league lead by one game. Earlier in the season St. Paul enjoyed a three game lead.

Immanuel who had previously beaten St. Paul to reduce their lead scored three victories over St. Peter on February 15 to take over third place, but were unable to maintain this pace against Faith and lost two games.

On Friday, March 14, St. Peter will play at Faith while St. Paul takes on Immanuel at Mt. Prospect.

March 28 will wind up the season with Faith at Immanuel and St. Peter at St. Paul.

The standings:

	W	L
St. Paul	18	12
Faith	17	13
Immanuel	13	17
St. Peter	12	18

MOST REGIONALS RUN TRUE TO FORM

Expect Arlington and Palatine to meet Thursday

The state regional tournaments are well underway with game results running pretty generally true to form indicating that the seeding of teams by coaches ratings was quite reliable.

At Barrington, Waukegan, and Elgin the semi-finals will be on tap Thursday night with good games expected at every session. Elgin's semi-finals, which will put Hebron against Crystal Lake and Dundee vs. Elgin, will hold the most interest. Crystal Lake handed Hebron their only setback of the current campaign after Hebron had badly drubbed the Tigers in the McHenry county tournament.

Hebron and Elgin are favored as finalists with Hebron most likely to advance. Last year Elgin stopped a favored Hebron team. That same team is back and should come through Friday night.

BARRINGTON may have a breeze in their own tournament but it is always harder to beat a team the third time. Coach Les Harman's five is less liable to be upset than some teams for his outfit, while not flashy, is exceedingly consistent and that is what it takes for tournament success.

Thursday's semi-finals should put Barrington vs. Libertyville and Palatine vs. Arlington Hts. if the team ratings were correct. Either Palatine or Arlington might give Barrington a tough tussle particularly if they can have their tall centers playing their best. Barrington's most noticable weakness is lack of height.

WAUKEGAN'S tournament is the real toss up with the Highland Park, Lake Forest semi-final tilt likely to decide the tournament. Lake Forest upset top seeded New Trier 47-45 in the opening round as Hannah made 31 points. The Scouts who tied Crystal Lake for the North Suburban title may go all the way in the regional.

At Elmhurst the powerful Oak Park team which went to the state last year is expected to have its own way in a field of much less ability. At LaGrange it looks like a cinch to pair Morton of Cicero, the Suburban League champ, and LaGrange, the West Suburban title winner, in the championship game. Final games at the Elmhurst and LaGrange regionals will be played Thursday night.

There will be many good basketball games Thursday and Friday in this area with the best final games at LaGrange Thursday and at Elgin on Friday.

York tops Bensenville in regional play, 54-41

Bensenville's basketball Bisons bowed out of the state tourney trail Monday night of this week in the Glenbard regional when they kept even with York of Elmhurst three quarters but were unable to keep the pace in the third segment. A 16-4 margin that period decided the issue, 54-41.

After a 12-10 York margin the opening stanza, Coach Navotny's five rallied to take a 26-24 halftime lead. It was then that the Bensenville charm ran out, and the two squads went into the final quarter with York holding a 40-30 margin.

Wally Kirk, numer four scorer in West Suburban league with 226 points, was top man against the Bisons when he notched ten buckets and six charities. York was slated to play Oak Park Wednesday night.

BENSENVILLE scoring was divided among six boys with Szymonik garnering 13 points.

Oak Park had an easy time of disposing of Maine in the other contest that night at Glenbard. After an 8-0 opening period. Maine never threatened, particularly after a 12-5 third quarter tally dispensed with Maine hopes (22-18) at the intermission.

Dick Steiner, Maine's representative on the West Suburban all-star team as announced last week by Paddock Publications, was top man with 14 points.

AT LaGRANGE Morton dumped Hinsdale unceremoniously, 63-42, and Riverside-Brookfield dispensed with Morgan Park, 55-48. The two winners were slated to meet Wednesday night.

Riverside stepped into a 20-9 lead the first quarter, then took it easy until Morgan Park threatened the third frame, 15-5. R-B then pushed across 19 markers the final period to cinch the contest.

Norb Leckband takes 2nd in wrestling meet

Norbert Leckband became second best wrestler in the state at 138 pounds at Proviso last weekend when he lost to Corwin of Rock Island Saturday night 6-0. Norb had copped three decisions prior to the loss against the western Illinois youth, and was a "true champ" all the way according to Coach George Torhan.

Leckband beat Roos of Lane, 9-3, in his first match Friday afternoon. Friday night he came from behind to decision Mattaliano of Calumet, 6-5. He had an easy time of it against Tolen of Mattoon, 6-0, Saturday afternoon.

BUT EXPERIENCE and polish paid off for Corwin Saturday night as he gained the initial advantage against Leckband, then wrestled defensively to gain the decision. Corwin was smaller than Norbert, but was wider, strong and fast. He has had six years wrestling competition.

Arlington placed twelfth, tied with three other schools, Tilden copping the meet. The Chicago school tallied 26 points to second place Waukegan with 20. The latter school had the only repeat winner in the meet, Larry Tenpas, at 145 pounds.

32 to battle for Golden Gloves Friday night

Thirty-two survivors, four in each weight division, from last week's tournament of champions will converge on Chicago Stadium Friday night for the Golden Gloves finals, amateur boxing's greatest show. These 32 scrappers will battle through the semi-finals and finals for the championships and the right to go to New York first and then on to Europe to meet the best of the old country. There will be 24 bouts.

A crowd of more than 17,000 is expected to watch Kenny Davis, 1951 featherweight champion, defend his title. He is the only returning champion as Ernest Fann of Cleveland, 1951 heavyweight titleholder, was eliminated Tuesday night. Davis, a marine stationed at San Diego, represents the Los Angeles Times. He scored an impressive victory over Ples Gilmore of Toledo, the 1950 featherweight champion, to earn his berth in the semi-final round Friday night.

IN ADDITION to Davis, Los Angeles currently leading in the race for the team trophy, has two other contenders remaining in Herschel Acton, a welterweight, and Ed Sanders, heavyweight. Acton was the 1947 and 1949 lightweight champion.

Three other teams are still in the race for the trophy and each has three boxers remaining in competition. They are the Detroit Michigan Catholic, St. Louis Globe-Democrat and the Gary Post-Tribune.

Representing Detroit are Joe Willie De Myers, 112 pounds; Richard Cassady, 118 pounds, and Herb Ellison, heavyweight. St. Louis has Joe Reynolds, 135 lbs.; Charles Robert, 160 pounds, and Stan Howlett, heavyweight. Gary contenders are Kenny Wright, 112 pounds; Virel Marcy, 147 pounds, and George Bradley, a middleweight.

THE BOUTS will be televised over the Dumont nvetwork and broadcast over the Mutual network.

Tickets may be obtained at the stadium all day Friday.

Palatine hopes to beat Arlington Thursday night in the Barrington regional, providing they whipped Northbrook Wednesday night while the Cardinals were dispensing with Grayslake. The Pirates finished third in Northwest conference play with an 8-6 record. Arlington took a previous meeting between the two teams.

Downers proved toughest for Wolz 'n Vawter

Downers Grove proved the biggest stumbling block this year for George Wolz of Riverside and Jay Vawter of Arlington in the individual scoring race of the West Suburban league. Wolz tallied 24 points against Heights Friday night to cop the championship with 257 scores, while Vawter could make only 11 points, for second spot with 245 points. Vawter led in the field goal department, however, with 104, six more than Wolz.

The Downers school held Jay down to 27 points in two contests and suppressed George to 30. York was more of a jinx for Vawter, permitting nine points the first meeting and 14 the second, but allowed Wolz his greatest two game total of 49. Hinsdale, which restricted Wolz to 30 scores, permitted Vawter 50 in the two meetings, including Jay's league season's high.

BOTH BOYS hit 33 points once within the loop. Wolz accomplished that feat against Glenbard for a total of 46 scores in the two meetings and Vawter did the same against Hinsdale. The Hilltoppers gave Vawter 50 points.

Most consistent team in many ways, including points allowed Wolz and Vawter, was LaGrange. The Lyons township five permitted Wolz 17 and 16 scores, and Vawter 15 and 13.

That Vawter improved his eye as the season progressed is borne out by the increase in points against Downers, 10-17, in the two games; against York, 9-14; against Hinsdale, 17-33; against Maine 16-22; and against Glenbard 22-28.

Wolz was hotter the first half of the season. He dropped against York, 30-19; Hinsdale, 19-11 and Maine 21-14. Only against Glenbard, 13-33, and Arlington did he increase his "allowance."

BOB LYONS of Downers Grove finished third in the scoring race, with 85 baskets and 70 free throws giving him a 240 total. Wally Kirk of York was next with 226 scores, well ahead of Art Zitzka of Hinsdale's 208.

One hundred three boys tallied points in the West Suburban league this year, with 41 of them underclassmen due to be back next season. Top team from this standpoint is York where 66 per cent of the points were scored by boys other than seniors. Maine's 61 per cent and LaGrange's 52 per cent were close behind.

Down York way, there is probably the most optimism along this line with junior Wally Kirk leading his mates with 226 points, followed by sophomore Walter Strauch with 114 scores. These two accounted for 340 of their team's 674 points.

On the bottom of the heap in underclass scoring was Glenbard with one man, junior Don Duffey, scoring three points. Arlington saw 123 of 604 points or 20 per cent tallied by underclass boys.

HOW CLOSELY positions of individual scorers affect the league race is shown by totalling position numbers of the first five boys from each school in individual points. Adding these in much the manner of a golf meet, LaGrange is first with 68, Downers next with 93, and Riverside third with 108.

Only Riverside, plus transposition of Maine and Arlington, are out of position according to order of team finish. For Heights Johnny Eakins ranked 23rd, Bob Chamberlain 29th, Hans Schmidt 34th, and Ronnie Grace 43rd.

Hinsdale insures cellar spot for Glenbard, 48-42

Glenbard's varsity cagers became sole owners of the cellar position in the West Suburban conference Friday night when the Hinsdale Red Devils trimmed the local Hilltoppers, 48-42, to capture third place in the conference standings.

Eleven Hinsdale seniors were used by the Hinsdale crew to stop the visiting Bards. However, Art Zitzka contributed mostly to the downfall of the local quintet. The 6' center poured in six field goals and a quartet of charities for 18 points.

Bob Hiller captured runner-up honors with 3 baskets and a pair of free tosses for 8 points.

BOB FROST rang up a total of 13 markers as he dunked in three field goals and seven charities. Ron Willis poured through five baskets while Dick Weichenhain bagged a trio of baskets and a pair of free throws for eight points.

Hinsdale made their biggest gain in the third period when they doubled the Bards in the scoring department, 12-6. The Red Devils jumped to a quick 11-7 point lead in the initial period but Glenbard sliced two points off their lead in the second round when they outhit Hinsdale, 13-13.

Then came the fatal frame when the Demons hit the locals for 12 markers while holding the Bards to 6. The Hilltoppers rallied in the final frame, but it was cut short of a possible victory when Zitzka pumped through three field goals.

The local quintet cut down Hinsdale's one-time 14 point advantage to just two points in the final frame and hit for nine consecutive markers in the finale to forge within shooting distance of the Devils.

A BRILLIANT second half come-back failed to give the Poies enough margin to stop Hinsdale's Imps as the Bard yearlings tumbled for the twelfth time this season, 45-44.

After Hinsdale built up an unsurmountable lead that almost turned the game into a complete rout the first half, the Ponies staged a rally in both the third and fourth rounds, outscoring Hinsdale in each frame, to almost hand the Hinsdalians a reverse decision.

The local quintet turned on the power in the last stanza to swamp the Imps, 15-6, but it lacked enough power to overcome the stubborn Hinsdale squad. Tom Peters and Denny Cook combined efforts to engineer the Bard rally.

In the fourth period, the Ponies collected eight straight markers before Hinsdale was able to register another tally and before the winners realized it, the visitors had cut down their advantage to a single point, 40-39.

CORKERY of Hinsdale dunked in a long shot to give the Imps a more stable lead. However, Peters swished a hook shot from his pivot spot to again plague the winners.

Hinsdale kept pace with Glenbard and again tallied but Peters did a repeat performance to again give the victors a scare.

However, the Imps potted their third consecutive attempt to move out in front again. Denny Cook drove under the basket and was fouled. Consequently, two more tallies were added to the local side with only 58 seconds to go.

Then Hinsdale added its final touch by connecting on another field goal.

First and second place winners in each weight class from a district qualify for the final Olympic tryouts at Ames, Iowa, April 17, 18 and 19.

Amateur wrestlers wishing to compete should contact Dean Ryan, wrestling coach, University of Illinois, Navy Pier, Chicago, Ill., for entry blanks. The deadline for all entry blanks is March 18.

Card frosh and J-Vs lose to Niles

Arlington's freshman and junior-varsity basketball teams dropped the final double-header of the season Thursday afternoon to Niles, the younger boys falling, 49-26 and the older five succumbing,, 48-32.

The frosh, playing without Maher, Mueller and Brumm, were behind all the way. Niles went ahead the opening quarter, 13-4, rushed ahead at halftime, 23-8, then coasted into the home stretch, 39-21.

High point man for Heights was Burns with ten points. Playing particularly good ball were Burns, Sheppard and France. High scorer for the winners was Karnatz with 15 points.

Arlington was weak at the free throw line, making good on just four of 17 attempts, while Niles swished the nets for 13 of 28.

McAULIFFE led the junior-varsity in a third period rally which brought Arlington up to 31-32 at the end of the third quarter, but a solitary free throw by Hesch in the final stanza saw Heights hopes go down the drain.

Niles forged ahead, 17-8, the opening quarter, and kept that margin at the half, 26-17. Scoring for the Trojan reserves was divided between five boys, with Foran and Butterworth heading the parade.

McAuliffe scored from the court three times the second quarter, and thrice more the third for six buckets and two charities. Once again Heights was weak at the free throw line with six of 22, while Niles scored ten of 19.

Coaches and officials to meet at West Chicago

March meeting of the Fox Valley coaches and officials association will be held Monday, March 10, at West Chicago high school, starting at 8 p. m.

Included in the program is a basketball movie, discussion of proposed rules changes by Hebron coach Russ Ahearn, discussion of officiating by Tommy Kouzmanoff of Arlington Heights, and a review of officiating this past year by athletic director Harvey Dickinson of Hinsdale high school. Moderator will be S. O. Storby of the Illinois rules committee.

Arlington's varsity opened their part in the Barrington regional against Grayslake Wednesday night, with a victory insuring their appearance Thursday night, probably against Palatine. The winners meet for the championship Friday night.

Boost Arlington stakes and purses to past 2,500,000

The richest stakes program in American racing—exactly $1,000,000 in added money for 27 stakes—was announced for the 1952 Arlington Park-Washington Park coordinated meeting by executive director Benjamin F. Lindheimer.

The million dollars represents an increase over 1951 Arlington-Washington stakes values of more than $100,000.

Overall, approximately $2,500,000 in stakes and purses will be distributed at the twin Chicago tracks this summer, again making the 67-day Arlington-Washington coordinated meeting the world capital of summer racing.

Arlington Park opens the 1952 campaign June 16 with the $170,000 gross Washington Park Handicap climaxing the rich schedule on Labor Day, September 1, at the Homewood course.

SIX RACES which will gross over $100,000 each will headline the stakes-laden meeting. Four of them—the Arlington Classic, American Derby, Arlington Handicap and Washington Park Handicap—are each valued at $100,000 added and are the richest of their kind in racing. Two others, the Arlington and Washington Park Futurities, will gross around $110,000 each.

Two other "world's richest" races will be the $70,000 gross Arlington Lassie and Princess Pat Stakes for two-year-old fillies.

Leading the parade of hundred-granders will be the Arlington Futurity July 12, followed by the Classic July 19 and the Arlington Handicap July 26.

The historic American Derby picks up the hundred-grand motif at Washington Park with an August 9 renewal, followed by the Futurity on August 23 and the Handicap on Labor Day.

Both the Classic and American Derby, which are expected to gross around $155,000 each, were doubled in value for 1952 renewals, while the two Futurities were each increased to $50,000 added. The Modesty Handicap for fillies and mares will be contested at twice its 1951 value, running at $40,000. An additional $15,000 has been added to the Whirlaway, making the 1952 renewal another $40,000 stake.

Keeneyville hopeful

Some veterans, but no depth for Glenbard cindermen

"Depth" will be the biggest deficit the Glenbard track squad will have to face when they swing into action at the end of this month. The cindermen began workouts last week and already coach George Dekan is easing off on the rigorous training schedule and is concentrating on the individual events.

However, Coach Dekan hasn't too much to work with this year, that is, in quantity, not quality. It is one of the smallest crop of boys the head mentor has ever had.

Of this number, however, individual stars and standouts are liberally sprinkled. Co-captains Al Harp and Chuck Wertz will be the biggest threats of the Hilltoppers this season.

HARP IS ONE of the most versatile thinclads. Placing in the conference broad jump last year, Harp also throws the discus and is a member of the relay team.

Wertz specializes in the dashes. As yet, it is undecided in what event he will compete, although Coach Dekan wants him to transfer to the 440 this year. He is also one of the key members of the relay quartet.

In most events only one entrant will be starting. All events, with the exception of dashes, are shy the minimum number of candidates.

In the high jump, Don Duffey will be depended upon to bring in the necessary points, while Tom Hill will be sole starter in the pole vault. Both boys are juniors.

IN THE DISTANCE events, the 880 and the mile, Coach Dekan will be backed by a host of standouts, Tom Mueller, captain of the cross-country team, Murry Schmidt and Dick Cline, Dave Clarke and Harold Hoyer, all juniors.

Besides Harp in the discus, Bruce Pipken from Keeneyville will be one of the top throwers in his department.

In the hurdles, Coach Dekan will have two reliable entrants, John Ford and Don Goldner, senior team members. Both also can double as dash men.

Tom Peters will be handicapped more than any other team member. The lanky shot-putter is only a sophomore, but hopes are high he will cop enough points to aid the cindermen. Ronnie Walker is also classed as an entrant in the weight throwing department.

Bob Schulze of Mt. Prospect 177 pound wrestling champ in college league at De Kalb

Bob Schulze, Mt. Prospect freshman at Northern Illinois state teachers college in De-Kalb, last Saturday became the 177 pound wrestling champion of the Interstate Inter-collegiate Athletic conference.

Schulze, who captained the Arlington Heights grappling unit in his senior year, whipped Illinois Normal's Fred Krause 5-4 for the championship after beating Jim Williams of Southern Illinois university, 4-0, in the semi-finals of the second annual tournament, held at Illinois state normal university.

Bob's vitcory played a large part in helping the Northern Huskies nip Southern for the team championship, 29-26. Illinois Normal followed with 19 points and Western Illinois State with 11, while Eastern was held scoreless.

The other two IIAC members, Michigan Normal and Central Michigan, do not have wrestling teams.

SCHULZE WAS a clear winner over Krause, despite the close score. After a scoreless first round, Krause took the lead with a reversal.

The Northern wrestler soon gained an escape, and went ahead with a takedown ten seconds later, and before the round was over Schulze had gained another point for a predicament, to give him a 4-2 lead heading into the final period.

Krause started in top position, but Bob escaped in less than five seconds. The rest of the round was wrestled with both men on their feet until Krause gained his last two points for a takedown at the buzzer.

BOB REPORTED to the Northern wrestling squad late in the season, after Huskie heavyweight Mike Churillo was lost to the squad for the season.

In his first three college matches he went in the heavyweight division, where he spotted from 40 to 70 pounds in each battle. He won one fall and lost two decisions at this weight.

Then he dropped to 177 for the rest of the season. Before winning the IIAC championship, he had placed third in the eight-team Wheaton Invitational by beating Chapman of the Navy Pier Illini in the consolation battle at Wheaton February 23.

Last fall Bob earned a varsity letter with the Huskie football team, all-victorious IIAC grid champions. He's Coach Chick Evans' leading contender for a regular offensive guard spot next fall.

Chicago Relays record breaker

That number one track event, the Chicago Relays, has seen eleven world's records set and eighteen tied. This year's meet is slated for the Chicago Stadium March 29.

The 60 yard high hurdles heads the list with new records set twice, and tied six times.

Back in 1938 A. Tolmich set world's records in the 50, 60 and 65 yard high hurdles of :06.2, :07.3 and :07.8. The following year he tied his own mark in the 60 and 50 yard high hurdles, plus set a :05.1 in the 40 yard high hurdles.

IN 1941 the 40, 50 and 60 yard high hurdles world's records were all tied, the 40 and 60 by F. Wolcott and the 50 by B. Wright. Wolcott cut the 40 yard high hurdle time to :05 in '42 and again tied the 50 and 60 yard marks.

These marks stood until 1947 when Harrison Dillard tied all three marks. Dillard and W. Porter tied for the :07.2 mark in the 60 yard high hurdles in 1948, with Dillard setting a new world mark of :07.1 in the same meet.

POLE VAULT world's record was set three times in the Relays. Earl Meadows vaulted 14' 3" in 1937, then moved it up to 14' 6½" in 1939. Cornelius Warmerdam vaulted 15' 8½" for a new world mark in 1943.

Other world marks set at the Relays were the two mile run in 1941 of 8:51.1 by Greg Rice, and the mile at 4:06 in 1944 by Gil Dodds. Ties included the 40 yard dash in '42, '43 and '46.

NCAA tournament at Stadium March 21, 22

A major part of the top college competition will move into Chicago Stadium for the first time March 21 and 22 when De-Paul university plays host to the midwestern regional tournament of the NCAA championship playoffs.

Slated to appear are Illinois, Big Ten champ, the Ivy league champ, and the two most outstanding teams east of the Mississippi river not affiliated with any league.

Friday night, March 21, both league champs will play independents with the losers meeting Saturday night for third place in the preliminary to the championship contest.

The winner will go on to Seattle for a two day playoff with similar winners from Raleigh, N. C., Kansas City and Corvallis, Oregon, tournaments for the NCAA title.

FRIDAY, MARCH 7, 1952

George Wolz of Riverside won the battle for individual scoring Friday night in the Arlington Heights gym, outpointing his nearest rival, Jay Vawter, 24-11. The visiting school took the contest, 55-46.

For Jay it was a bad night. He had few shots the first half, then couldn't connect on many the second, the ball going in and out. around the hoop, etc. In addition, Vawter attempted to keep team play going instead of striving solely for individual honors.

Going into the game Jay led Wolz by a solitary point. Final scoring tabulations reveal Wolz ranking first in total with 257, while Vawter, with 104 field goals and 37 free throws, finished second with 245. Bob Lyons of Downers Grove was third with 240.

STEPPING INTO the breech for Heights was John Eakins, number two scorer for Coach Ray DeGreeff's squad, with eleven baskets for 22 points. Prior to Friday only twice had any Cardinal, other than Vawter, tallied more than four buckets in a single game. Bob Chamberlain made five against Glenbard a week earlier and Eakins tallied six from the court against Hinsdale January 11.

Johnny sank three buckets the first quarter, two the second, four the third and a pair the final period. Wolz made his eleven with a pair the opening stanza, five the second, and four the final quarter.

INTERESTING sidelight to the individual scoring affair is that on the Riverside court Vawter had made 18 points while holding Wolz to ten. This time Wolz held Jay to 11, while carding 24, most of them a deadly fall-away jump shot from one spot on the floor.

Riverside opened with a 13-10 first quarter, scooted ahead, 16-11 the second, then settled down to hang on. Heights was behind in the third frame, 43-34.

HEIGHTS FROSH-SOPH threw away the preliminary, 50-45, after holding a nine point lead with three minutes to go. Coach Maurice Klotz' yearlings thus racked up a 13-7 season.

Riverside led the first quarter, 14-11, and 24-21 at the intermission. A 16-8 splurge the third period put the locals ahead, 37-32 going into the final stanza.

For Heights it was Bob Turner leading his mates with six baskets and a free throw for 13 points. Roger Thomas and Wayne Mueller tallied 11 and ten. Zolla, Lang and Rogeness scored 14, 12 and ten for the winners.

The last three minutes were a nightmare for the yearlings as the Heights floor game folded. Passes were missed, balls were dropped, and mistakes occurred as Riverside surged ahead to cop the game.

The frosh-sophs lost twice each to LaGrange, Riverside and York, and once to Barrington.

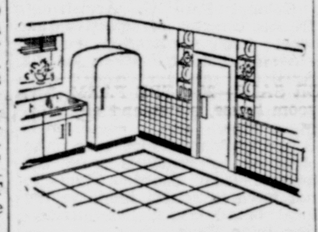
Economical Improvement

DRAB walls in the bathroom or kitchen can be economically and handsomely covered with scored hardboard panels which have been especially treated to make them moisture-resistant and wear-proof.

Obtainable at lumber yards as Masonite Temprtile, the panels have score marks four inches apart. When painted or enameled, with the score lines colored in contrast, the wall will present a pleasing appearance. A striping tool is used to paint the score lines neatly.



Temprtile may be cut and worked with ordinary carpenter's tools, so that the panels may easily be fitted. Over solid backing, the panels may be attached either with hardboard adhesive or with long brads. Temprtile dealers have complete instructions with every bundle. Metal moldings are recommended for the joints between the panels.

The scored hardboard panels may be finished with paint, enamel, or lacquer. The selected finish should be applied in a system of coats, usually three, recommended by the paint manufacturer. Like other hardboards made by the Masonite process, Temprtile is an all-wood product which is widely used. Upper walls in the kitchen illustrated are paneled with tempered hardboard.

Local banks help inform self-employed

Local community organizations joined forces last week with the Social Security administration at 5306 W. Lawrence ave., Chicago, to inform the self-employed on their new rights and obligations as participants in the old-age and survivors insurance program.

The Arlington Heights, Bartlett, Mt. Prospect, Palatine and Wheeling banks gave notices to their clients with their monthly statements advising them that they must report 1951 self-employment earnings with their income tax by March 15, 1952. Pamphlets on benefits are available at the banks, also. Posters in the bank lobbies and post offices reminded self-employed people to be sure and get their personal social security account number card or a duplicate card if they had once had a number. The post office in each town has a supply of account number application forms which can be completed and mailed to the Lawrence ave. office.

A FIVE-MINUTE movie short will also be shown in the local theaters before March 15 describing important features of the extension of social security coverage to the self-employed.

Miss Ellen McGuire, manager at the 5306 W. Lawrence ave. office stated one important point being overlooked by some accountants and bookkeepers in advising their clients is that certain professional groups, though commonly considered to "be in business," are not included under the program. This applies particularly to optometrists, funeral directors, professional engineers and architects. Other excluded professions are lawyer, physician, dentist, osteopath, chiropractor, naturopath, Christian Science practitioner and veterinarian. Physiotherapists are not excluded and do come under the program.

FOR THOSE who have particular problems or questions about social security, the 5306 Lawrence ave. office has their field representative, Richard J. Burns, at the Des Plaines post office downstairs every Tuesday from 10:00 a. m. to noon. Telephone inquiries may be made to Spring 7-3413.

Reveal work of Red Cross in Korea and other fronts

Reports from G. I's in Korea are piling up convincing proof that Red Cross is doing an extensive job for servicemen — giving aid to American troops at the front and in hospitals, and maintaining an open line of communications with their families at home.

Accounts from servicemen on the battlefront reveal that Red Cross field directors are "with us in the front line, and risk enemy fire to help us in any way they can."

RED CROSS workers are providing services and comfort supplies to the armed forces and maintain clubs in Pusan, Taegu, Kunsan, and Sasebo, at which there are no charges for any articles, services, or food. During World War II, Red Cross was forced to make a nominal charge at clubs in some war theaters for food, lodging, barber, and valet services by direct order of the War Department. Misunderstanding of these charges resulted in criticism of Red Cross by G. I's, and this experience has prompted Red Cross to obtain agreement from the department of defense that there will be no future charges whatsoever for services in the clubs.

"On the home front, the Chicago chapter is handling some 6,400 cases involving men in the armed forces each month," Mr. Evers pointed out. "In addition, Chicago must supply 15,000 pints of blood per month as its quota in the staggering total of 300,000 pints which Red Cross must provide monthly to the armed forces."

IN CONNECTION with the blood program, Evers recalled reports after World War II that "Red Cross sold blood plasma."

"This could not have happened," he stated. "The only role of Red Cross in the blood donor program is to act as a collection agency for the army and navy, and it has no part in the distribution and use of whole blood or plasma, which is administered to patients only by military medical personnel. These corpsmen, of course, do not sell blood, and Red Cross could not possibly do so."

Other allegations that "Red Cross sold cigarettes, sweaters, stationery, and comfort articles" met unqualified denial with facts. Sale of cigarettes is a violation of Red Cross and the bureau of internal revenue regulations, and other articles are given to those in need and are never, under any circumstances, sold by the Red Cross.

"Situations which may have prompted such accusations probably occurred through an occasional confusion of Red Cross supplies with army post exchange supplies," Evers declared. "Frequently hospital workers made purchases for patients, and in some instances this service may have been misunderstood. Sometimes, despite every precaution, Red Cross supplies were stolen and found their way into unauthorized hands, and servicemen may have been victimized. If a serviceman purchased any article bearing a Red Cross label, he did not purchase it from the Red Cross."

Big Ten meet records may fall at Illinois

Two hundred sixty-three of the Big Ten's top track and field athletes will compete for individual and team championships in the 42nd annual Western conference indoor meet March 7 and 8 in University of Illinois Armory.

Michigan, on-paper favorite to annex its sixteenth league title, has entered a well-balanced squad of 35 competitors. Its entry list is exceeded only by that of Indiana with 37.

Illinois and Iowa, teams expected to give the Wolverines their greatest challenge, have entered 31 and 22 performers, respectively. Other schools and number of entries are: Michigan State 31, Northwestern 15, Minnesota 24, Ohio State 20, Wisconsin 26, and Purdue 22.

FIVE RECORDS will stand in jeopardy when preliminaries begin in the big Illinois enclosure at 7 p. m. Friday. Henry Cryer, Illinois, and John Ross, Michigan, will attack Don Gehrmann's 1:53.1 mark in the 880. Cryer has negotiated the distance in 1:53.8 this season and Ross has a best performance of 1:54.4.

One of the most brilliant mile fields in conference history may force a record-breaking effort through the intense competition. The mark of 4:10.4 was set by Gehrmann in 1950 and equalled by Len Truex of Ohio State last year. Truex is one of eight top-notch milers who will be in the field.

Others, all of whom have been clocked under 4:16, are Jack Hagan, Indiana; John Stayton and Denis Johannson, Purdue; Frank Duis, Wisconsin; Ted Wheeler, Iowa; Don McEwen and John Ross, Michigan.

McEWEN will double back to attempt to break his own mark in the two-mile, a 9:07.2, which the Wolverine star posted as a sophomore in 1950. The Michigan captain has been concentrating on the mile in dual meets to build up speed, but is best at two miles where he is class of the field.

Van Bruner of Michigan and Willie Williams, Illini sophomore star, might equal the Big Ten record of :07.8 in 70-yard low hurdles. Williams was only one-tenth second off the record in a dual meet, while Bruner has hit :08 flat.

Dike Eddleman's high jump record is threatened by two newcomers, Peron Dubard of Ohio State and Ron Mitchell of Illinois. Eddleman cleared 6 feet 7 1/8 inches in the 1947 meet. Dubard has a 6-6 effort to his credit while Mitchell has gone over 6-5 5/8.

TRACK COACHES confidently predict that Jim Golliday, Northwestern's brilliant sprinter, can equal the Big Ten and American record of :06.1 in the 60-yard dash, but as yet this season he has not run this distance. He'll be pushed by Williams of Illinois, Ira Murchison and Glen Hesseltine of Iowa, all of whom have hit :06.3 in early-season meets.

Wheeling Blackhawks crush Oilers, 52-15

The Wheeling Blackhawks advanced into the finals of the North Shore playoffs by virtually crushing the Peaster Oilers, 52-15. This victory gave the 'Hawks the right to oppose the Conney's Cagers, who won their game with R & B's, 62-39, for the North Shore league championship.

The 'Hawks started fast on quick baskets by Ed Kostka, Jack Clark, and Art Horcher early in the first quarter and by the period's end, they maintained a 10-4 advantage over the Oilers. In the second quarter, the shooting accuracy of the Hawks' Roy Anderson and Paul Roche resulted in the 25-14 margin the Hawks enjoyed at the intermission.

IN THE THIRD quarter the Blackhawks, who had the best defensive ball club in the North Shore league play this season, held the once mighty Oilers to only one point, while the locals score 25 points to turn the game into a run-away. The Hawks' third quarter attack was carried by Roy Anderson's ten, Jim Trava's seven, and Jack Clark's seven points.

Roy Anderson paced the winners with 16 points on eight baskets from the field. Jack Clark and Jim Trava were runners-up for Wheeling with 11 and 10 points respectively. Tom Finneran was high for the losers with 11 markers.

A COMPARISON of the two teams that meet for the championship, shows that Conney's have a higher scoring team than the Hawks. The Cagers averaged 44.6 per game in the regular season, while the Hawks have only a 31.4 average. On the other hand, the Blackhawks' defense seems to have a slight advantage, having allowed only 383 points scored against them in 12 games, as compared with the 452 scored against Conneys. The two teams have split four games in regular league competition and both finished with identical 7-5 records.

The Blackhawks will meet the Aptakisic Stars in the final game of their annual four game series Friday, March 7. The Hawks have won the first three and will be attempting to make it a grand-slam. The Blackhawks also hold a 12-2 margin over the Stars in the standing series between the two clubs. The game will be played at the Wheeling Community gym starting at 8 p. m. The Hawks won and lost record to date is 17-4.

Wheeling beats St. James for Little 7 tournament title

Sweet 16 announcer

A. F. (Fritz) Sorenson, popular sportscaster for WKRS, Waukegan, who will handle the play-by-play descriptions of the 1952 Illinois high school basketball tourney direct from Champaign over a network of ten northern Illinois radio stations.

Sponsored by Public Service Company of Northern Illinois, Sorenson's reports of the "Sweet Sixteen" finals, March 19 through March 22, will be heard over stations WFJL (FM)—Chicago, WHFC—Cicero, WNMP and WEAW—Evanston, WJOL—Joliet, WKAN — Kankakee, WTAQ—La Grange, WOPA — Oak Park, WCMY—Ottawa and WKRS—Waukegan. Bob Philbin of WJOL will alternate with Sorenson in the play-by-play sportscasts. Two other stations, WFJS—Freeport and WSDR—Sterling, will use their own sports announcers to air the tourney direct from George Huff gymnasium.

Wheeling grade schoolers won the Little 7 basketball tournament championship Saturday, March 1, when they defeated St. James, 50-27, in a game played in the Mt. Prospect school gymnasium. Previous wins for Wheeling in the tourney Friday and Saturday were over St. Peter, 23-19, and Mt. Prospect, 25-19.

Larry Brumm was again top point maker with 22 scores, followed by Carl Anfeldt with 21. Randag was number one scorer for St. James with 14 points.

Wheeling tallied 31 points to St. James 15 the second half to sew up the contest. Kosmin of Wheeling was outstanding on defense and as his team's play maker.

WHEELING "A" team emerged the champion in the A or varsity division of the little Seven League. Inability of Mt. Prospect to defeat Wheeling in any of their meetings cost them the championship, or at least a tie, since they defeated every team in the league except Wheeling, losing to them twice in league play and once in the tournament.

This climaxed the most successful season Wheeling has had since coach Jack Norris took over Wheeling basketball fortunes in 1949. The "A" team this year is one of the finest teams Wheeling has ever had, winning 12 of 13. Over a three year period Wheeling teams have won 43 games while losing only 16, for an excellent record considering the size of the town and the competition faced.

The only disappointing factor in this year's play was the lack of general support from Wheeling fans. Attendance was small at most of the games, especially at the tournament championship when only a handful of the loyal showed up.

College students should plan now if taking qualification test

Colonel Paul G. Armstrong, Illinois director of selective service, today reminded college students that applications for the April 24 selective service college qualification test must be postmarked not later than midnight March 10.

Application blanks may be obtained by students from the nearest local board. They do not have to return home to the local board which has jurisdiction over them.

To be eligible to take the selective service qualification test, an applicant, on the testing date (1) must be a Selective Service registrant who intends to request deferment as a student; (2) must be satisfactorily pursuing a full-time college course leading to a degree; (3) must not previously have taken the test.

Passion play

The famous "American Passion Play," Bloomington, will be presented for the 30th consecutive season this year. Ten performances will be given, including two evening presentations. The first performance will be Sunday, April 6, at 1:30 p. m., central standard time. Subsequent presentations will be given every Sunday afternoon during the months of April and May. Two mid-week performances are scheduled for Wednesday, May 14, and Wednesday, May 21

Dance to promote four year course at Navy Pier

Navy Pier students and their parents will sponsor a huge card party and dance at 8 p. m. Saturday, March 8, to promote a four-year University of Illinois in Chicago.

Proceeds from the affair will be used to finance activities of the Quad Council, an all-University student organization dedicated to developing a full-fledged University of Illinois in Chicago. The present courses take students through the freshman and sophomore years only. Further work toward a degree must be taken on the University's Urbana-Champaign campus.

More than 20,000 different students have matriculated at the Navy Pier campus since it opened in 1946. Present enrollment is over 3,100, an increase of .88 per cent over the same time last year.

Alderman Framberg saves the day for Chief Skoog

Following an exciting two hour session of Arlington Heights village board, Officer Skoog remained at the position that he has held the past six years. In order to secure an amiable settlement of the controversey, Alderman Framberg offered his resignation as chairman of the police committee provided Mr. Skoog would remain as chief of police.

The resignation was accepted following the adoption of an amendment which places the affairs of the police department in charge of the entire board with Mayor Flentie, the head of that committee.

Officer Skoog says, if given orders, he can clean up the town in 90 days. Nobody has ever given him orders to act in that regard. He did not intentionally disobey orders of the board when he took "still" prisoners to the prohibition office.

"Passing the buck" was planned for the topic of discussion that evening according to Rex Volz who also stated that the citizens of Arlington Heights who had elected the president of the village board would back them in anything that was right.

"Perhaps I have taken my authority of office too seriously," said Mayor Flentie. "Anything I have done has been for what I thought was the best interest of this village." Mayor Flentie presented section four of the revised code which makes it the duty of the mayor to bring to the attention of the board instances of laxity of village employees that may come to his attenion. He said "and I am willing to do it."

Elk Grove youth Nabbed as U. S. enemy.

Northwest Cook county had a "taste" of espionage Friday that appeared to be the real thing. Scores of squad cars from the FBI office, state and county and various municipalities flocked to south State road, Arlington Hts., following the discovery by Officer Elmer Karstens of the "wanted" car. The driver, Raymond Taage, whose home is in Elk Grove forest preserve, was taken into custody by the county police and with his camera and plates were turned over to the FBI for a five hour grilling. Raymond, who is a student in the local high school was released. It was just a case of an over-zealous amateur photographer, but two things were accomplished.

TALES of the STREET

—T. C. HART

● THE BIG BLOW UP

When the history of the 1952 primary campaign in Cook county is written it may be called the year of the great "purge" or when "the purgers purged the purgers."

Never again will a political party try to solve a murder by firing all the people on the payrolls who happened to be sponsored by a certain group of leaders. And probably never again will the leaders of a party start to clean house in their own party until they have looked around a little and taken stock of just how such an action is going to affect themselves.

The idea of firing every one down to the poorly paid jobs of a lot of folks who really needed those jobs to support their families seemed nothing short of crazy at the start, and then when the light of publicity was really turned on to the payrolls and it was found that the leaders who had ordered the big purge had personally sponsored a lot of phony payrollers, the lid really blew off.

People were found on the payrolls who were not laboring, women were on the payrolls who were listed as laborers, and assistant foresters who were doing secretarial work and publicity for a political party, and there were men phantoms who couldn't be found at all.

The whole thing was a nasty mess and the roof fell in on the purgers who suddenly found themselves the purged instead of the purgers.

Public sentiment forced the withdrawal of a candidate for governor, public confidence in the elected officials fell to an all time low, citizens' committees were organized, an effort is being made to wake up the public to take a lasting interest in politics and civic affairs to the end that public officials may be elected to office who have behind them a clean record and who will conduct their offices for the benefit of the people who elect them and not for a plunderbund of politicians and phantom payrollers.

And what effect does all this "purge" and "purging of the purgers" have upon the coming primary in the Republican party, where most of the fireworks have taken place up to date?

The whole situation tends to focus attention upon the remaining candidates for governor, William G. Stratton, Richard Yates Rowe and Park Livingston, all of whom are conducting an active campaign.

Of these remaining candidates, William G. Stratton stands out as a natural for the Republican votes. As congressman at large from Illinois, he gained an inside picture of the national situation. As state treasurer of Illinois now serving his second "hitch" in that office, he has a perfect inside knowledge of all the workings of state government and of the financial obligations and responsibilities of a great state.

Mr. Stratton has covered the state as a campaigner more than any candidate for public office, he is known from one end of the state to the other, and his winning personality, his simple friendly manner and his "just one of you folk" attitude have won him hosts of friends throughout the state.

Now with all trace of big time political machine domination removed from the primary and with it an open primary where the voters are free to vote their own convictions instead of being bound to some candidate through a job obligation, it looks as if the big majority of the "freed" voters would go for the man they have admired all the time, and that William G. Stratton would win the Republican nomination for governor by an overwhelming vote.

● SOME CHANGE

We happened to be in the auditor's office of the county treasurer the other day and found the assistant auditor working on a summary of the 1935 taxes.

"You fellows didn't collect much money back in those days," commented the auditor, as he showed us the sheet revealing that in 1935 the real estate collection in Palatine township amounted to only about $35,000, and the personal property tax about $450.

Some difference from the present taxes paid by the taxpayers of the township. Back in those days the depression was on, times were tough, and the delinquent tax list was a thing of appalling magnitude, with all of the "forsaken" property on the tax books.

Now conditions are far different and populous subdivisions have taken the place of the deserted lands; but despite the big increase in valuation, the added cost of the big boom has caused such an advance in costs for new schools, etc., that the taxes are greater per capita now than they were back in those slim days of 1935.

● MAYBE NEXT YEAR

On Washington's birthday we met Gray Sanborn, president of the consolidated school board, enjoying a day off and telling about how he had visited the schools that morning.

We remember way back years ago the president of the school board had the same idea; he was going to visit the school, make a speech about Washington and present the school with a picture of the first president, but when he got to school, there wasn't any. The youngsters had gone on strike at having to attend school on Washington's birthday and were out on a parade during which they marched past the president's home and presented his young son who was playing out in the yard with an American flag.

Now Sanborn's excuse for school on Washington's birthday is that while Lincoln's birthday is a legal school holiday, Washington's is not, and the time is so taken up that having to work an extra day to make up for Washington's birthday would make them go over the legal limit for holding school.

Well, maybe next year it will be different. They are going to vote this spring on authority to keep school more than nine months of the year, so if the public approves that proposition, maybe the school board can find an extra day to make up for giving the youngsters a day off on Washington's birthday.

If they don't, maybe some of the patriotic youngsters of the present will take a leaf from the history of the past and organize a strike on Washington's birthday, and when brother Sanborn gets over to visit school, he might be in time to lead the parade.

● VEHICLE TAGS

Palatine had the largest number of vehicle tags issued when the discount period ended March 1 in history. Over 800 people had taken advantage of the dollar saving before March 1 and had purchased tags.

The police department will now put on a drive to bring in the others and get the situation cleared up so there will not be any late fall and winter crusade like there was last year when the police drove in over $1,000 in license money after November 1.

● NEITHER ONE

The snappy air Saturday morning when March made its entry was not exactly lamb like, neither was it very much like a lion, so the old saying about March coming in like a lion and going out like a lamb, or the other way around, just didn't fit that beautiful crisp sunshiny morning with the cardinals whistling from the tree tops and the other winter birds chattering in the bushes.

March got off to a fine start — neither lamb nor lion, just a fine average winter morning. What may happen from here on is anybody's guess. We'll probably have some real winter weather scattered along with our hopes of an early spring, but anyway March is here. We are this far on the way, and March 21 is the official beginning of spring, so the balmy breezes are not too far away.

● PRETTY PLANT

Once again this year we tried raising a petunia plant in the house for a house plant, and once again it was a great success. We set out a young petunia plant in a pot just before the freeze up last fall, and it has been blooming beautifully for some time, having as many as 15 nice deep pink blooms at one time.

Petunias are a great bedding flower for summer gardens and they bloom profusely until frost, but they aren't usually looked upon as a house plant. Just the same they do make a very acceptable house plant and furnish a lot of bright blooms during the long winter days.

● ON AND ON

The wheels of justice roll on and on. Every Friday night there are court cases at the Palatine police court; folks who usually have run up against the law for some vehicle violation.

The other night a young fellow from Wheeling was fined $18 and $7 costs for being in too big a hurry to get to the bowling alley, and in his rush he exceeded the speed limit by 18 miles per hour.

Another gentleman from Fox Lake had failed to stop at a stop sign and his driver's license had expired. In his talk with the judge he said if he hadn't been stopped he'd probably not have thought of his driver's license for another couple of years, but he at once sent for a renewal when it was called to his attention. About the failure to stop for a stop sign he said he always came almost to a stop. The judge told him that those signs said "stop" not "almost" and let him off moderately with a fine of five and four.

Other autoists continue to pay the $2 fine for parking across the sidewalk by the depot. Maybe some day those folks who park there will learn to keep off that sidewalk.

Illinois TAX FACTS

By George B. Mahin, Executive Secretary Taxpayers Federation of Illinois

A comparison of personnel administration of the state of Illinois under civil service with personnel administration in private enterprise makes it easy to understand why civil service hasn't made greater gains in the past 50 years. It also shows that the shortcomings are not principally the fault of the state civil service commission but rather are due to unworkable laws, to lack of cooperation by some of the heads of operating agencies of the state government, and to John Q. Public who permits these laws and attitudes to continue.

When the personnel director of a company is told to find an office manager, for example, he is expected to find the best qualified office manager that can be obtained for this particular job at the salary paid, and in the shortest possible time. The efficiency of the personnel director is measured by results, and he has to have his department set up on a basis that will produce results.

When the civil service commission is notified an office manager is needed by a state agency, however, the red tape unwinds slowly. First, the commission has to have an "eligible list" of office managers. This list is made up of those who have passed examinations which must be state-wide and open to all Illinois residents. Examination notices must be distributed from 1 to 13 weeks before the exam to the 102 county clerks and the 204 members of the general assembly. Written test papers must be graded. For many jobs, oral exams must be held and graded. Then lists must be posted, with successful candidates listed by order of final grade.

The commission is prohibited by law from setting minimum educational qualifications for admission to any exam or for appointment to any job, except in cases of physicians, nurses, pharmacists and other professions for which federal or state licenses or certificates are required. The commission is prohibited from examining out-of-state residents, regardless of qualifications, so long as "qualified residents of this state are available." This makes it impossible in many cases for the commission to meet the demand for such jobs as hospital attendants. The commission is also prohibited from establishing minimum or maximum age limits for admission to any exams. As a result, eligible lists sometimes include 'teen-agers for jobs requiring responsibility and mature judgment, and frequently include retired people for jobs they are physically unable to perform.

As a result of the time required for scoring the written tests, notifying candidates, giving oral tests or interviews, months pass before an eligible test can be posted. By that time, many of those who took the exam have other jobs and are no longer interested in state employment. As a further time-consuming complication, each one on the list is entitled to refuse an offer of a job 3 times before his name can be removed from the list.

The result of all this red tape is that the agency that needed the office manager may have to wait months to get one, who may not prove to be any good anyway.

Girls take over gas station to net $115 for youth center

Girls of the Libertyville-Mundelein Youth center put in a busy day at Russ & Jerry's service station in Libertyville one Saturday, pumping a total of 1,958 gallons of gasoline to net a total of $115 for their organization. Russ Brown, who agreed to give the young people all the profits for the sale of gas, oil and car washes, said that business was about triple that of an average Saturday.

THE FENCE POST

Millionaire's bill

For a number of years there has been an undercover movement among certain groups to bring about the repeal of the 16th (Income Tax) Amendment to the Constitution of the United States. The attempt to have this done in the United States Congress through introduction of the Reed bill was defeated.

A left handed way of getting the same results was then used by inducing the legislatures of the States to introduce a resolution to the Congress asking that a Constitutional Convention be called for the purpose of repealing the 16th Amendment and have substituted therefore an Amendment that would place a ceiling of 25% on income and inheritance taxes. They now claim to have 28 of the 32 states necessary for such action and the Congress must act on such resolutions.

Now that they have about achieved their purpose, you can see that it is being publicized in the newspapers. However, it is being given to the public in such a manner as to make it look as though it would be good for all. But, Mr. and Mrs. John Q. Public, are you fully aware of the inherent danger in such a scheme:

Do you not recognize it as a means of transferring more of the tax load on to the low income group and to those who are on fixed incomes and are on the verge of starvation standards now because of the too heavy load being carried?

I am surprised, but then I should not be, that the newspapers have not previously exposed this plan, for surely they must have known about it for years, and you, the reading public, should be stirred up to demand that you be given a "fair deal" also instead of continual loopholes for those able to pay.

Every thinking person knows that no government can operate on the revenue that would be derived from a maximum of 25% levy on incomes, nor even 40% in time of war. The alternative would be to increase the levy on all incomes to the maximum, though the average wage earner pays less than that now, and also to levy a national sales tax that would hit the low income group the hardest.

Now, Mr. Worker and Mrs. Housewife, do you want your income tax to be increased, or another sales tax on the necessities? If you do not, then you should be doing something about it by letting your Senators and Congressmen know how you feel about it, and also write to your state legislators. It is time that all of us get into the fight and see that our representatives in the state and national capitols actually represent us by protecting our interests and our pocketbooks. What will you do about it?

White crosses

It seems it is too expensive to keep up the white crosses on soldiers' graves in the national cemeteries. In some places, these marks have already been removed. Surely the general public would not like to have these crosses removed from the graves of our heroic dead. Please write the president of the United States or the secretary of war requesting replacement of white crosses on soldiers' graves.

If you are interested in having UMT you should write to U. S. Senators Paul Douglas and Everett M. Dirksen, senate office building, Washington, D. C., and to Margaret Church, house office building. Ask them to support Senate Bill 2441, H. R. 5903 and H. R. 6032.

New dividend for GI insurance due policy date

The 1952 dividend on national service life insurance will not be available to eligible veterans in cash or for use as premium payments before the anniversary date of the policy in 1952, the Veterans Administration warned.

This point was stressed in reply to many inquiries from veteran policy-holders who were under the impression the dividend is already due them and is being applied to their premium payments immediately because they did not request cash payment.

THE VA announced recently it will pay a regular dividend of $200,000,000 to approximately 5,000,000 policy holders whose policies were in force under premium-paying conditions for three months or longer between the 1951 and 1952 anniversary dates of their policies. Payments on policies with January anniversary dates are scheduled to be made in March.

Under Public Law 36, 82nd Congress, policy holders who wish to receive their 1952 dividend in cash must so notify the VA on the special card recently mailed them. If cash payment is not requested, the dividend will be used by the VA to pay the premiums becoming due after the policy anniversary date on which the dividend is payable, if the policy holder fails to pay such premiums.

IN LIEU OF receiving the dividend in cash, any policy holder may request the VA in writing to apply his 1952 dividend as an advance payment on premiums falling due after the 1952 anniversary date of his policy.

Also, the NSLI Act of 1940 provides that on permanent type policies only, the policy holder may request the VA in writing to place the dividend on deposit at interest, with the aggregate to be included in the calculation of cash value at time of lapse or maturity.

Such written requests, including full name and address and insurance numbers, should be sent to the VA District Office to which premium payments are made. Since the recent consolidation of the Seattle, Wash., Chicago and Fort Snelling, Minnesota District Offices, all NSLI accounts for veteran-residents of Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa, Nebraska, North Dakota, South Dakota, Montana, Idaho, Oregon, Washington and Alaska are being administered from Fort Snelling.

JUST AROUND THE CORNER

from PATTY McARDLE

Dear Peg:

Before our third lecture on "natural childbirth" began, our class of mothers-to-be had a short question and answer period. One of the questions asked was how to prevent the scar tissue some women have left, particularly on the abdomen, after the baby is born. Generally this has to do with the elasticity of your skin, and in many cases can't be entirely prevented. However, Mrs. Gamper suggested massaging the abdomen and hips with a cream, made by a friend of hers and which seems to work quite successfully, called "Marion Phillips"—available in Field's maternity section.

Also, the question arose about weight control during pregnancy. If the mother-to-be is in good health at the time she becomes pregnant, she should make a concentrated effort not to gain more than twenty-five pounds during the nine months (unless otherwise instructed by her obstetrician). If an excessive amount of weight is gained, it is much more difficult to deliver, both because of the added tissue about the muscles which must help to expel the baby, and the added tissue about the heart which inhibits the ability to breathe deeply during labor—a process so important at this time.

THE QUESTION of proper under clothing was also brought up. Unless the mother-to-be is subject to backaches and feels the need of stronger support, a light weight garment or garter belt is all that she needs. However, if she does want more support, she should go to any one of the department stores or small maternity shops and be properly fitted. (I have seen some lovely things in white and pink satin and nylon including grand adjustable slips—how different from the days when our mothers were having babies!)

One of the primary factors which helps to increase fear or anxiety, and consequently mental tension in the mother-to-be, is the ignorance or misconception of what is really going on inside of her during those waiting months.

WE HAVE ALL heard many old wives' tales such as: the mother-to-be should paint or play the piano in order to produce a talented off-spring, or if she becomes nervous and irritable during pregnancy she is liable to have a nervous and irritable child, or even more shocking, if the baby is born with a birthmark it is probably related to some weird experience the mother had during the prenatal period! Of course, these stories are impossible when we realize that the tiny tissue which develops into a bouncing baby has no connection with the nervous system of its mother. Nor does its blood ever mingle with that of the mother.

The baby develops within a fluid filled space which is lined with a smooth, slippery membrane and thicker tissue. Since the baby floats in this fluid a slight bump on mother's tummy does nothing more than send it gently to the other side of the cavity.

AT THE SAME TIME "baby" is growing, a fleshy disc-like organ is developing known as the placenta. It is attached to the wall of the cavity by a thin tissue, and attached to the baby by the umbilical cord. Within this cord are blood vessels which carry oxygen and food from the placenta to the baby and carry waste material from the baby to the placenta. The action by which the baby receives its food from its mother is called osmosis—a sort of seepage process through this thin tissue—the placenta—the cord—and to the baby.

We saw an interesting diagram of the month by month development of the baby. By the end of the first month the embryo is only about one quarter of an inch long, but by the end of the second, has grown to an inch in length, and has a human face, arms, and legs.

AFTER THE THIRD month our baby is somewhat over three inches long and fine membranes which will be finger and toenails are apparent. "Mama" can sometimes feel faint movement by the end of the fourth month, and after the fifth month the doctor can hear the heart beat.

My the time the sixth month has passed, the baby is about twelve inches long and weighs a pound and a half, however, it is not until the seventh month has been completed that a baby, if born, has a chance of survival.

At the end of the eighth month the baby measures about sixteen and a half inches and weighs some four pounds, and finally, after the ninth month, weighing about seven pounds and being considered a mature infant—baby is now ready to make its "debut."

How incredible and wonderful it is to think of that tiny speck growing within the mother, and at last, being born a beautiful, healthy baby!

My love,
Patty.

A long-handled plastic scrub brush which the maker claims will make floor washing easier and will outlast five ordinary brushes is now being sold . . . Shocks in home and office resulting from static electricity picked up from wool and synthetic fiber rugs can now be eliminated, the manufacturer of an electro-chemical liquid product claims. THE MAILMAN'S CORNER

BY LELAND ELLIS TRUXELL

1952 is here and it is Leap Year, and all of the girls that have not yet gotten a man are out in force, and I pity the poor bachelors who have to date maintained a dauntless front against the wiles of womanhood.

Truthfully, there is no such thing as a bonafide Leap Year, girls being on the lookout for good personable males at all times, and constantly practicing their feminine wiles whereby innocent males are trapped—the sad, downcast look, the fleeting smile, the coy, demure side glance under long lashes, the timid, backward over-the-shoulder glance, the conniving for introductions from friends, and the hundreds of clever feminine tricks are all means toward an end, and that end is a male. And although no mathematical tables are made to show the percentage of women who are successful, it is unbelievably high. The average man has a very slim chance of getting away, once a girl sets eyes on him with matrimonial intentions.

There are quite a few bashful men, however, who never pop the question. Some of them are born bachelors who do not want to be bothered by feminine encumbrances, or look upon a wife and children as curbs to freedom, and feel that marriage limits their field of play, and so they try to stay clear of the net. There are others so busy striving for success in business they have no time to look at a girl. Some are just plain scared.

It must have been a woman who thought up Leap Year, so there would be an open season on these men, and a woman could go the limit, even proposing if necessary, or maybe even buying the ring and wedding suit. It is typical of girls to do something like that. From their birth, most girls start primping and practicing to get a man, and by the time they are 15 or 16, they are attractive and seductive as can be. If men do not readily come their way, they prepare to become business women or nurses to broaden the field of search, never intending to make these professions a life work, but when they become 20 or 21, and are still single, they get desperate. It is for these desperate women that Leap Year was created, and a desperate woman looking for a husband is dangerous indeed during Leap Year, when all the rules are thrown out the window!

Of course, we men realize that we are wonderful, and that it is worth a woman's devoting her life to catch one of us, even going to the extent of creating Leap Year, and we are proud of our masculine attractiveness. Most of us feel that any girl who goes all out for a man and succeeds in getting him, no matter what the cost, is amply rewarded for her efforts.

Can You Tell Me...

Why Washed Paint Blisters?

Can you advise what causes soil-flat paint, that has been applied to a smooth plaster finish wall, to blister and raise from the plaster surface upon washing?

Some flat wall paints are rather porous. Such a paint might be basically responsible for the finish blistering and raising when the surface is washed. Here's what might have happened: Possibly the wall was sized with a water soluble size before painting. As the flat paint may absorb water, the water used in washing might have penetrated through it to the water soluble size, dissolving it and making the paint blister. We have encountered similar cases.

May we help solve your decorating problems?

Pick directors of soil group

At the second annual meeting of the North Cook county soil conservation district held February 18 at 1:30 p. m., three men were re-elected as district directors for a two-year term. They are:

Emil Hattendorf, Rte. 1, Box 263, Elgin.

Wilmer Rohlwing, Rte. 1, Palatine.

Xavier Schmid, Rte. 2, Box 69, Palatine.

Elmer Wente, Rte. 1, Box 30, Palatine, is director whose term continues through the present year.

THESE DIRECTORS will be in charge of planning the soil conservation district program for the North Cook County Soil Conservation District during 1952. They will have the assistance of Maurice M. Umbdenstock, soil conservation district farm planner. All applications for assistance from the Soil Conservation Service through the district should be directed to this newly elected district board.

The first meeting of the board will be on March 17. At this time officers will be elected and regular business considered.

The directors are putting more emphasis on group planning meeting to enable more farmers to be reached and served by the district. Better working relationships and more conservation can be accomplished by working together than by working alone.

New record sales for fertilizer in Illinois

More mixed fertilizers, fertilizer materials and rock phosphate were sold in Illinois during the first six months of 1951 than during any similar previous period.

Soils specialist Touby Kurtz of the Illinois college of agriculture said tonnage of each group was up around 30 per cent.

Sales of mixed fertilizers totaled 310,000 tons from January through June last year. For the same period, 234,000 tons of rock phosphate were sold, plus 83,500 tons of fertilizer materials like superphosphate and nitrogen carriers.

These figures are supplied voluntarily by registered Illinois fertilizer firms. Kurtz emphasizes that the information therefore depends entirely on the accuracy of the companies' reports.

The average analysis for the 10 leading mixed fertilizers showed about a 10 per cent increase for both nitrogen and potash.

The amount of potash in fertilizer materials was almost twice that reported for the spring period of 1950. Tonnages of soluble phosphate materials were slightly less.

Farmers Need Lots of Water— And Much Of It Must Be Hot

By IRA MILLER
Farm Electrification Bureau

Most farm families don't realize how much hot water they use unless they still are getting by, via "kettle on the stove" methods. If so, they use it sparingly and not in the quantities they desire — or require — for good health and approved farm management practices. The latter applies particularly to dairy farming, with home needs the same in both farm and urban communities.

Let's talk about the home first. Now that the rural "Saturday night bath" is rapidly becoming as outmoded as a city artist's supposed conception of a farmer—a tall, gangling fellow with a straw hat, pitch fork and a whisp of hay stuck in one corner of his mouth—it might surprise urban dwellers to know the amount of hot water farm families use in a month. Here are the records for a family of four: 486 gallons for washing hands, 224 gallons for tub baths, 252 gallons for dish washing and 120 gallons for laundry. Add to this amount, 60 gallons per month for shaving needs for the head of the house and you have a rather impressive total.

Dairy farmers boost this amount considerably since it is estimated that from 7 to 10 gallons of hot water are required per day for each 10 cows — an average of about 800 per month for a 30-cow herd. It's used in various ways to wash the cow's udders before milking, to wash milking utensils, for watering calves, washing the farmer's hands and to clean the instruments used by milk testers.

The installation of pressure water systems has been a boon to farmers. Such systems provide running water for farm homes and enable them to use electric water heaters. This type of heater can be installed anywhere nearest to the point where hot water is needed. And, it provides hot water at the turn of a faucet — a far cry from granddad's day of fetching water from the pump and heating it on the kitchen stove. About 350 kwhr per month will be required to heat water electrically for a family of four.

As for the milk house—pressure and non-pressure types of electric water heaters are used in milk houses. The pressure type is the same as that used in the home. Non-pressure or "pour-in" types are designed so that farmers can draw off one gallon of water at the bottom faucet in exchange for a gallon of cold water poured in at the top of the tank. The amount of electricity used to heat water for dairy barn purposes varies. In general, however, farmers can figure that from 3 to 4 gallons of water can be heated electrically at a cost of about 1 kwhr, depending on the temperature of the water entering the tank and that drawn off for use.

YOU CAN'T BEAT HOT WATER—when it comes to milk house cleaning operations.

Save on buildings by using own farm-grown wood

You can make surprising savings in cost of farm buildings by using your own farm timber.

C. S. Walters, forester in the University of Illinois, reported the Clifton brothers in Iroquois county had total cash costs of $35 per thousand board feet when they cut 15,000 board feet of timber from their farm woodland two winters ago. Imported lumber would have cost them about $120 per thousand board feet if they had bought it. That's almost a 4-to-1 difference.

Lumber from Illinois farm woodlands is just as good for many uses as wood from the west or the south. And Illinois timber is much cheaper because it doesn't have to be kiln-dried, planed and shipped two or three thousand miles.

The Clifton brothers borrowed a chain saw to cut the trees and make them into logs. It took two men about two weeks between chores to do this work and to bunch the logs for hauling.

THE SAWMILL operator hauled the logs to the mill and sawed them into one-inch lumber for $33 per thousand board feet. It cost $30 to haul the lumber back to the farm.

With their lumber the Cliftons built a 35 by 50 foot henhouse for 600 birds and still had about 10,000 board feet, or about two-thirds of the lumber, left for future use.

Walters says this lumber came mostly from hackberry and buckeye, which farmers do not ordinarily consider to be timber trees. However, they produce good lumber.

The $35 per thousand cost to the Cliftons does not include the cost of their own labor or the usual return for stumpage.

Illinois milk records

Illinois' milk industry is an outstanding asset in the state's economic life.

Vital support dairying gives to the state's economy is strikingly emphasized by a milk industry foundation review of outstanding facts about Illinois' cows and the daily flow of milk. With 925,000 daily cows valued at $226,476,000 and 2,409,000,000 quarts of milk produced annually bossy's records are impressive.

Illinois dairy farmers received a total of $150,656,000 in cash income from milk. Cheese production of 43,640,000 pounds, and ice cream 30,644,000 gallons, and butter 63,480,000 pounds

Scholarships and camp trips up for 4-H clubs

A new 4-H activity in which agriculture and home economics club members can aim for four $200 scholarships and 138 camp trips was announced by Claradehl Upham, Cook county home adviser.

According to Mrs. Upham, 4-H'ers can enter the activity by using electricity or electrical equipment in any or all phases of their regular 4-H projects and then making a report in the official farm and home electric activity folder obtained from local club leaders. Entries in the activity will be judged by county and state 4-H extension officials on the basis of the 4-H'ers general record, his individual work with electricity, and his group work with electricity.

"OF PARTICULAR interest to Ag club members," Mrs. Upham stated, "is the make-a-handi-heater participation meeting, a part of the activity. During the meeting, club members learn how to safely assemble an approved infra-red heat lamp fixture which can be used for livestock brooding and many other chores around the farm and in the home which require heat.

Home Ec 4-H clubs are invited to schedule an Ironing Party, during which they can learn how to care for and use modern steam and dry irons. A portion of the party time will be devoted to the use of press cloths and pressing boards.

4-H clubs wishing to schedule either the handi-heater or ironing meeting can do so by contacting their local Public Service agricultural engineer, farm home representative, or the Cook county home bureau office.

Cheap tractor oil can be very expensive, too

If you short-change your tractor with cheap lubricating oil, it may kick right back at you with a big repair bill and a breakdown in a busy season.

George Pickard, research agricultural engineer at the Illinois college of agriculture, says you should buy tractor oil from a reputable dealer in your own community. He has to live with his customers, so he will give you what you pay for.

It is possible for you to save up to 3/4 cent an hour of your tractor operation by buying creap oil instead of a premium-quality oil. But look what cheap, inferior oil can do to your engine.

IT CAN FORM heavy sludge in cold weather which will block the oil screen, stop flow of oil to the bearings and may burn out a bearing or two. It also oxidizes more easily than high-quality oil causing more varnish to form. Varnish collects with carbon on the pistons and in the ring grooves.

Stuck rings cause your engine to become an oil-eater. They also cause rapid wear of rings and cylinder walls and blow-by into the crankcase. Blow-by causes heavy deposits, resulting in preignition and loss of power.

Cheap oil may also corrode the bearings.

PICKARD POINTS out that good oil avoids these troubles mainly because the impurities and trouble-causing parts are removed. Additive compounds used in premium and heavy-duty oils prevent oxidation to varnish and acids. They prevent bearing corrosion and formation of carbon and varnish deposits on pistons and ring grooves.

Watch out for the salesman with cheap oil that is "just as good." Regular and premium-priced oil of unknown brand can be just as bad. Poor stock doped with added compounds will not hold up in your engine.

Dry dairy cows deserve good care

The kind of care you give your dry dairy cows helps to determine the amount of money they will earn for you after they freshen.

Dr. G. T. Woods, University of Illinois college of veterinary medicine, says that dry dairy cows, next to growing heifers, are probably the most neglected animals on the average farm. Cows deserve good care all the time, not just when they are in production.

To insure high milk production records, feed your dry cows properly, Dr. Woods advises. Cows in good condition at calving time usually outproduce cows that have been living on hay and a little corn. Good rations also build resistance to disease.

Before you remove a cow from the milking line, check her carefully for signs of mastitis. Veterinarians say that a good time to treat a cow is while she is dry. And watch dry cows for signs of infection. If mastitis appears, prompt treatment helps to prevent udder damage.

If there are lice or mange in the dairy herd, treat the dry cows too. Lindane, used as a dust, will get rid of the lice. If the cattle have both lice and mange, use lindane in a spray. In either case, be sure to use this pesticide according to the manufacturer's directions.

Record crowd, prices feature Shorthorn sale

Sixty-three lots of purebred Shorthorn cattle were sold at the Fox River Valley livestock center Tuesday, February 26, for an average of $1093 per head with a female, Curtiss Candy L Rosie, topping the sale at $3000.

The average for the nine bulls sold was $1056 and the 54 females, $1100. The Curtiss Candy group, 27, averaged $1217.

See tight feed situation in '52

A tight feed supply situation throughout the U. S., along with OPS controls, is reducing the prospective supply of meat for the remainder of 1952, H. M. Conway, live stock market analyst, writes in the March issue of National Live Stock Producer, the nation's live stock publication.

There has been a decided downtrend in pork production already as well as many changes and adjustments in cattle feeding programs, Mr. Conway asserts. Time element required for these adjustments to be felt by consumers is about six months which means shorter supplies of beef and pork during the last half of 1952.

AN APPROXIMATE 10% curtailment in the production of spring pigs is expected. This will practically offset a cyclical increase in production that has taken place during the past three years. The first evidence of curtailment will show up with the reduced number of packing sows and spring pigs marketed during the early spring and late fall. Hogs will be held for finishing on new corn which will further delay marketings and curtail weights —especially during the fall season.

The reported increase of cattle on feed is being offset by a general shift in feeding programs and by lack of replacements. Number of cattle on feed in the Corn Belt — up about 11% over a year ago—is of minor significance when it comes to potential beef supplies for the entire nation.

NUMBERS LOSE their significance when beef production is shifted to a growing basis and when it becomes necessary to depend upon weight gains from pasture and roughage. Cattle for wheat pasture grazing are practically nil, and there is no increased supply in prospect from spring and summer pasture areas. The lamb situation promises to be materially improved as a result of OPS lifting the ban on cutting and distribution which greatly penalizedd the winter supply of fed lambs. Considering the low level of sheep production, however, there is no significant change in prospective supplies of lamb.

Lucky guessers will have an opportunity to try their skill this week when a new contest opens at Mid-way Hatchery, rte. 53, midway between rte. 14 and Dundee rd., Palatine.

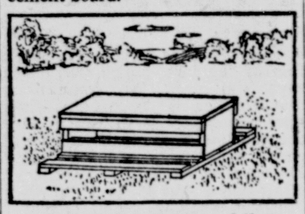
The contest is based on the growth-rate of a number of chickens on display at the dealer's store. Mr. Yaeger points out this is purely a local contest, that someone in this area must win. "The amateur has just as much chance as the expert," he said, "because even the chickens themselves don't know how fast they will grow."

The contest will run for six weeks, and the person whose guess is nearest to the actual weight of the birds at the close of the contest will be given the chickens free of charge. A 100-lb. bag of feed is being offered as second prize. Contest blanks may be obtained at the dealer's store.

Build a Poultry Feeder

The farmer who is handy with tools can make rainy days pay off by using them to put together needed equipment. A weatherproof outdoor poultry feeder, for example, is simple to build and once in use it will encourage proper feeding, reduce waste and prevent contamination of feed.

For ease of cleaning and durability, it is suggested that the feeder be made principally of asbestos-cement board.



This feeder holds one and three-quarters bushels of mash. During the summer months it should be placed in a shaded area. Pullets will go without feed during the heat of the day unless it is easy to get to and protected from the sun.

Complete instructions can be obtained free by writing the Asbestos Farm Service Bureau, 221 North LaSalle St., Chicago 1, Ill.

Trees need fertilizer for best growth

Fertilize your shade trees and evergreens in early spring as soon as the frost is out of the ground if you want healthy, vigorous growth.

H. R. Kemmerer, rural landscape specialist at the Illinois college of agriculture, says it's a good time to apply fertilizer every year to young trees, but once every three years is enough for older trees.

Kemmerer offers some ideas on how to apply the fertilizer. For shade trees, use a punch bar to make a series of small holes two feet apart and about 18 inches deep in the soil under the branch spread of each tree. Put a small amount of fertilizer in each hole and fill with top soil or peat.

WHILE NO ONE fertilizer is best, Kemmerer recommends those which contain a high proportion of nitrogen.

Here's an easy rule to follow: Apply three or four pounds of 10-8-6 or 10-6-4 fertilizer for each inch of trunk diameter 4.6 feet above the ground. If trees are less than 6 inches in diameter, cut that amount in half.

The number 10-8-6 and 10-6-4 mean that the fertilizer contains 10 per cent nitrogen, 8 (or 6) per cent phosphorus and 6 (or 4) per cent potash.

THE SAME STYLES of fertilizers and the same method can be used for pine, spruce and other evergreen trees. However, they need less fertilizer. Two pounds are enough for each inch of trunk diameter. Be careful not to spill any fertilizer on the evergreen foliage.

Keep newborn pigs warm to stop losses

The first 12 hours of a baby pig's life are the most critical. If the surrounding air temperature during that time is below 45 degrees F., you must provide extra heat to prevent losses from chilling.

S. W. Terrill, head of the swine division at the Illinois college of agriculture, says the most common way to prevent losses from chilling is to install a heat lamp in a protected corner of the farrowing pen. Pigs kept under the infrared lamp there for a few minutes will usually recognize that corner as a source of heat and spend a good part of their time under the lamp.

HOWEVER, the pigs should be placed under the lamp right after birth because they won't seek it out without help. The corner must be boarded off so that the sow cannot enter. Otherwise there is danger that she will lie on the pigs.

Once the pigs are a week old, Terrill says it's doubtful whether they will need any supplementary heat.

Another way to assure direct heat during the dangerous first 12 hours is to suspend a 250-watt infrared lamp from the center of the pen about 3 feet from the floor to furnish a circle of heat for the litter.

See tight feed situation in '52

A tight feed supply situation throughout the U. S., along with OPS controls, is reducing the prospective supply of meat for the remainder of 1952, H. M. Conway, live stock market analyst, writes in the March issue of National Live Stock Producer, the nation's live stock publication.

There has been a decided downtrend in pork production already as well as many changes and adjustments in cattle feeding programs, Mr. Conway asserts. Time element required for these adjustments to be felt by consumers is about six months which means shorter supplies of beef and pork during the last half of 1952.

AN APPROXIMATE 10% curtailment in the production of spring pigs is expected. This will practically offset a cyclical increase in production that has taken place during the past three years. The first evidence of curtailment will show up with the reduced number of packing sows and spring pigs marketed during the early spring and late fall. Hogs will be held for finishing on new corn which will further delay marketings and curtail weights —especially during the fall season.

The reported increase of cattle on feed is being offset by a general shift in feeding programs and by lack of replacements. Number of cattle on feed in the Corn Belt — up about 11% over a year ago—is of minor significance when it comes to potential beef supplies for the entire nation.

NUMBERS LOSE their significance when beef production is shifted to a growing basis and when it becomes necessary to depend upon weight gains from pasture and roughage. Cattle for wheat pasture grazing are practically nil, and there is no increased supply in prospect from spring and summer pasture areas. The lamb situation promises to be materially improved as a result of OPS lifting the ban on cutting and distribution which greatly penalizezd the winter supply of fed lambs. Considering the low level of sheep production, however, there is no significant change in prospective supplies of lamb.

Lucky guessers will have an opportunity to try their skill this week when a new contest opens at Mid-way Hatchery, rte. 53, midway between rte. 14 and Dundee rd., Palatine.

The contest is based on the growth-rate of a number of chickens on display at the dealer's store. Mr. Yaeger points out this is purely a local contest, that someone in this area must win. "The amateur has just as much chance as the expert," he said, "because even the chickens themselves don't know how fast they will grow."

The contest will run for six weeks, and the person whose guess is nearest to the actual weight of the birds at the close of the contest will be given the chickens free of charge. A 100-lb. bag of feed is being offered as second prize. Contest blanks may be obtained at the dealer's store.

Build a Poultry Feeder

The farmer who is handy with tools can make rainy days pay off by using them to put together needed equipment. A weatherproof outdoor poultry feeder, for example, is simple to build and once in use it will encourage proper feeding, reduce waste and prevent contamination of feed.

For ease of cleaning and durability, it is suggested that the feeder be made principally of asbestos-cement board.

This feeder holds one and three-quarters bushels of mash. During the summer months it should be placed in a shaded area. Pullets will go without feed during the heat of the day unless it is easy to get to and protected from the sun.

Complete instructions can be obtained free by writing the Asbestos Farm Service Bureau, 221 North LaSalle St., Chicago 1, Ill.

Trees need fertilizer for best growth

Fertilize your shade trees and evergreens in early spring as soon as the frost is out of the ground if you want healthy, vigorous growth.

H. R. Kemmerer, rural landscape specialist at the Illinois college of agriculture, says it's a good time to apply fertilizer every year to young trees, but once every three years is enough for older trees.

Kemmerer offers some ideas on how to apply the fertilizer. For shade trees, use a punch bar to make a series of small holes two feet apart and about 18 inches deep in the soil under the branch spread of each tree. Put a small amount of fertilizer in each hole and fill with top soil or peat.

WHILE NO ONE fertilizer is best, Kemmerer recommends those which contain a high proportion of nitrogen.

Here's an easy rule to follow: Apply three or four pounds of 10-8-6 or 10-6-4 fertilizer for each inch of trunk diameter 4.6 feet above the ground. If trees are less than 6 inches in diameter, cut that amount in half.

The number 10-8-6 and 10-6-4 mean that the fertilizer contains 10 per cent nitrogen, 8 (or 6) per cent phosphorus and 6 (or 4) per cent potash.

THE SAME STYLES of fertilizers and the same method can be used for pine, spruce and other evergreen trees. However, they need less fertilizer. Two pounds are enough for each inch of trunk diameter. Be careful not to spill any fertilizer on the evergreen foliage.

Keep newborn pigs warm to stop losses

The first 12 hours of a baby pig's life are the most critical. If the surrounding air temperature during that time is below 45 degrees F., you must provide extra heat to prevent losses from chilling.

S. W. Terrill, head of the swine division at the Illinois college of agriculture, says the most common way to prevent losses from chilling is to install a heat lamp in a protected corner of the farrowing pen. Pigs kept under the infrared lamp there for a few minutes will usually recognize that corner as a source of heat and spend a good part of their time under the lamp.

HOWEVER, the pigs should be placed under the lamp right after birth because they won't seek it out without help. The corner must be boarded off so that the sow cannot enter. Otherwise there is danger that she will lie on the pigs.

Once the pigs are a week old, Terrill says it's doubtful whether they will need any supplementary heat.

Another way to assure direct heat during the dangerous first 12 hours is to suspend a 250-watt infrared lamp from the center of the pen about 3 feet from the floor to furnish a circle of heat for the litter.

Forest River

This Saturday is the big day for the school bond issue. It is the duty of every qualified voter to make it his business to take a few minutes from other obligations to get to the school house to vote and to interest neighbors and inform them of this election. March 8 from 12 noon to 7 p. m.

On Friday night there will be a meeting at the club house and anyone having any questions after reading the brochures on the new school building program can have them answered by a school board director. Those who get this paper are asked to pass the word along about this meeting.

Neighbors, the building bug has really bitten the men of the Community club. Work was started last week on the addition to the Club house. This addition is to house all our plumbing needs. There will be a powder room for the ladies as well as a men's room, also a kitchen and a barroom. Plans are also in progress for an indoor sports room that culd be used for basketball or volleyball and perhaps skating.

The expenses in this project are naturally going to be large so it will be up to every one in our community as well as friends of the club to make every endeavor to raise money for this purpose.

The first such money raiser is being sponsored by the Community clubs, and every one is expected to do his part. This affair will be held March 15 at $1.00 per person for music and refreshments.

The ladies of the auxiliary are reminded that the regular monthly meetings are now being held on the second Wednesday of the month. This month it will be the twelfth and the social on the twenty-sixth, at the Club house at 1:30 p. m. Please be prompt.

Jim Brewer is laid up at home with a crushed foot. He was helping unload some of the building supplies for the club when he was injured. He will be laid up for quite a spell.

Lynn Martens and Johnny Erickson have been on the sick list this last week.

Billy Martens and Robert Roos are vacationing in Florida and are expected home soon.

The games party held at the Club house last Saturday night, sponsored by the Community club and the Fire department was nicely attended. These affairs are to be held every first Saturday of the month until further notice. Everyone is invited and the profits are to be used for the building fund.

Pine Gate Highlands

Association news

The next meeting of Pine Gate Highlands association will be held Friday, at 8 p. m., in Eino Seppala's basement. All members are asked to watch this column as it will carry meeting notices.

There was some consideration given to the use of Wilson school for the meetings, but they will continue to be held in Mr. Seppala's basement until further notice.

Mike Mieszanek reports that the petition for the stop light at Rand and State rds. has been completed with over 300 signatures. Thanks to Harry & Sons Service station and Hopper's tavern for their help and cooperation, and to all others who assisted in getting the signatures. The petition has been given to Henry A. Busse, township committeeman, for presentation to the Cook county commissioner, William Busse, and it is hoped there will be prompt action on this matter which is so vital to the safety of the community.

The shelter committee lost no time in erecting a shelter booth for the children where they will be protected from bad weather while waiting for the school bus. Thanks to Eino Seppala and his committee.

The petition to the Public Service company has been answered and all residents interested in securing gas are urged to be present at the next meeting, as facts and figures are now available to present to all concerned.

The Cook county building and zoning bureau will take action against violators of the building restrictions in the sub-division. Copies of these restrictions were passed out to all property owners so that all could be on the alert for any other violations.

Personal notes

Not much news for personal notes, except that the community is having its share of the measles, and the usual colds. However mothers were able to attend the Jewelry Fashion shows that have been given recently. The last one was given February 18 at the home of Helen Rapp, by Mrs. Lillian Davis. Refreshments were served and the ladies mentioned that this was a nice medium for getting better acquainted.

This reporter is seeking social news items for her column. Anyone having guests, vacationing, illness, birthdays and the like should call Mrs. Rapp, who will be more than glad to report the event in this column. This space is reserved each week for Pine Gate Highlands residents. Help keep it going by supplying the reporter with interesting news items.

Bits o' business

General Electric reports 4,000 subcontractors supply components for the J-47 jet engines GE is making. In 1952, the company estimates 17,000 subcontractors will help to meet its defense production schedule—80 per cent of them being small businesses . . . U. S. industrial diamond imports were valued at $4,177,819 in 1951 compared with $1,445,732 in 1950. Higher prices played a part in the increase, imports by weight actually increasing only 70 per cent . . . Feehanville School

Don't forget the big day, Saturday, March 8, 1952, 12 noon-7 p. m. That is the day on which the voters of the district can express their wishes regarding an adequate school for the children of their community. If you want a school, come out and vote and get your neighbors to come out.

Anyone in the district needing transportation may call Herold Broberg, Vanderbilt 4-6521 or Mrs. Lois Henk, Mt. Prospect 2557-J, and arrange to have a car pick them up.

Your planning commission has made an attempt to get a brochure into each home in the district, either by mail or by personal delivery. However, due to the weather, deliveries have been delayed. If anyone has been skipped, a call to either of the above numbers will bring a copy at once.

Anyone who has missed the Wednesday meeting at Fred's Hall, has another chance Friday evening, March 7, at Forest River Community Hall, to learn the true figures regarding taxation.

Most people do not realize that in District 26, on a home with an assessed valuation of $5,000 they are paying only $13 toward the Feehanville school. By raising the levy a small amount this district can have a school comparable to other districts in the area without being an undue burden.

A Brownie meeting was held at Camp Pine on Wednesday. Anyone interested in joining can get in touch with either Mrs. Risinger at Camp Pine or Mrs. Haverkampf.

Modern Etiquette

Q. Is it proper for a man to link his arm in a woman's while walking with her on the street?

A. No. A man does not link his arm in a woman's, hold her by the elbow, nor offer his arm, unless for the purpose of guiding her through a particularly crowded street or protecting her from traffic.

Q. When the coffee or tea is very hot, is it proper for one to use the spoon to sip it?

A. No; the spoon is reserved only for stirring, and when that is done, the spoon is placed in the saucer and remains there. One can only wait until the coffee or tea is sufficiently cool for comfortable drinking.

Q. Where do the relatives of the deceased sit during the funeral service at the church?

A. The relatives occupy the front pews on the right of the center aisle.

Q. During the day in a sleeping car, who has the right to the seat in the car facing forward?

A. The occupant of the lower berth, while the occupant of the upper berth rides backward. It would be an act of courtesy for the person who has the right to the seat facing forward to ask his companion whether he minds riding backward—and if he does, to make a place at his side.

Q. Is it proper for a close friend to rush in to kiss the bride at the conclusion of the ceremony, before her parents have done so?

A. Never! This reveals extreme lack of consideration.

Q. Is it proper to break bread or crackers into the bowl when partaking of soup?

A. This was formerly considered bad manners, but is now sanctioned by good society. However, it is better not to go into it too heavily.

Q. If many wedding gifts have been received, wouldn't it be all right and proper for the bride to send engraved cards of thanks?

A. Never! If a bride does not consider the gifts worth her time and effort to write personal notes of appreciation, it seems a shame that the donors devoted any time and money to her.

Q. Is it permissible to use the handkerchief for clearing the nose at the dinner table?

A. This is quite all right, if necessary—but it should be used as inconspicuously as possible.

Q. How should one eat cheeses?

A. Soft cheese can be spread on a cracker with a knife. Hard cheeses, such as American, are eaten either with the fork or fingers.

Q. Is there any rule of etiquette which dictates the town from which the wedding announcements should be mailed?

A. None at all.

Only a memory of a chair of a loved one who once sat there.
Dear Wilbert may God watch over you
Wherever you may be.

WASHINGTON AND "SMALL BUSINESS"

By C. WILSON HARDER

Recently this writer has been widely quoted on an open letter addressed to Prime Minister Churchill of England. The letter pointed out that while America feels sympathy for the British people, they, as well as the American taxpayers, are being duped to enrich British monopolies.

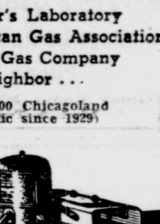
Britain has no anti-trust laws, so independent British business has been steadily dying on the vine. But Washington officials continue to use American taxes to support British monopolies.



C. W. Harder

Here's a clear cut example. British interests control the supply of world tin, and the U.S., consuming 65% of all tin produced, is the world's biggest tin customer. Right after Korea, tin prices were more than doubled. To combat the gouge on American consumers, the RFC took over buying of all tin, pegging the price lower than the asking price, at $1.12 per pound.

Since the Churchill visit the U.S. is now paying $1.18 per pound due to a very wierd deal.

The deal requires that the U. S. furnish during 1952 1,400,000 tons of steel. The deal states "the price (on the steel) will be the controlled price of the mills making delivery". This means that OPS now works for Britain. "It's a good thing the OPS is going to work for somebody at long last", is the comment heard.

Britain, on the other hand, agrees to sell the U.S. 20,000 tons of tin at a price of $1.18 per pound. The terms of the deal gives British monopoly a "lead pipe cinch" on U.S. tin supplies.

In addition, if the U.S. decides more than 20,000 tons of Malayan tin is needed in 1952, British monopoly will still gain in a fantastic use of the "heads I win, tails you lose" plan.

* * *

For the terms state that if the U.S. pays higher than $1.18 per pound, the new higher price will be paid on tin from Britain. If the U.S. buys at a lower price, the U.S. will pay Britain the difference between the lower price on additional tin and the price of $1.18 per pound up to the full amount of any loss Britain may incur in buying tin to supply at $1.18 per pound.

* * *

The British will also police all U.S. tin buying.

* * *

The U.S. will not deal with private tin companies without consulting Downing Street.

Thus, monopoly is given full U.S. support. Even if a small tin producer showed up who could sell tin to the U.S. at a lower price, he would be barred from competing with monopoly.

This agreement is as foreign to the ideas of American free trade as Kremlin views on a free election. It explains the sickness of the British economy. No economy can support both a free people and monopoly.

* * *

In the meantime, the Office of Price Stabilization, better known as Office Plenty Screwy has made another great decision.

Popcorn, both popped and unpopped, is now exempt from price control. But OPS states "should inflationary tendencies develop it may restore controls." You can't be too careful these days. Uncontrolled popcorn might pop off new inflations except OPS is standing guard.

About Your Health

Raw or undercooked pork can bring trichinosis, a long, painful and sometimes fatal disease, the educational committee of the Illinois State Medical society observes in a health talk.

The disease is caused by a round worm known as the Trichinella spiralis. It is acquired by human beings by eating meat, usually pork, in which the larvae are established. The larvae are encased in a transparent capsule in which they have existed for long periods in the muscular tissue of the hog. When the pork is eaten, the capsule dissolves in the stomach. The larvae then bore into walls of the intestines where, in a period ranging from seven to fourteen days, they grow into mature worms.

WITHIN SIX weeks, each female then produces about 1,500 eggs which hatch out into larvae. These larvae enter the lymph spaces of the intestinal walls, thence the blood stream, eventually reaching the heart. From the heart they are distributed in the blood to the muscles. They bore in between the muscle fibers and then form again the characteristic capsule or cyst, where they may remain alive for many years.

In its early stage, when the larvae are digging into the intestinal walls, the disease is usually marked by stomach upsets, followed by muscular pain, twitching and weakness. If the number of worms swallowed is large, the symptoms will be more intense, with pain so severe that it is often difficult to move. In the next stage there may be also difficulty in breathing, chewing, swallowing or talking, depending on what muscles have been invaded.

Other common symptoms are headache, chills and a general feeling of illness. Puffiness appears around the eyes and the throat is sore. Acute attacks last for a week or two until the wandering larvae become encysted, with a large majority of cases ending in recovery. There is always high fever in the second stage, with an increase in the white cells of the blood. If the parasite invades the heart muscles, death may result. The third stage, that of encystment, may show anemia and skin eruptions, with a few cases of pneumonia. The fever becomes remittent.

An average of 1.5 percent of all American hogs is believed to have trichinae and autopsy averages throughout the nation show that about 16 percent of the population has been infected.

UNFORTUNATELY, little can be done medically to alleviate the condition. It may take months to clear up, depending on the ability of the body to withstand the activity of the parasite until it becomes encysted. The best treatment is prevention.

Because hogs acquire the infection from eating offal and garbage before feeding it to swine, [illegible] such as dead rats, which [illegible] worms.

One way to destroy the worm is [illegible] at a temperature of five degrees Fahrenheit for 20 days before it is used.

PORK PRODUCTS, such as sausage and frankfurters, or meat loaf and chop suey containing pork, are foods that will bear special watching.
